Of Time . . .
And the Tartan

Of Time

And The Tartan . .

The changes that pass on the face of the earth have always been a baffling mystery to the mind of man.

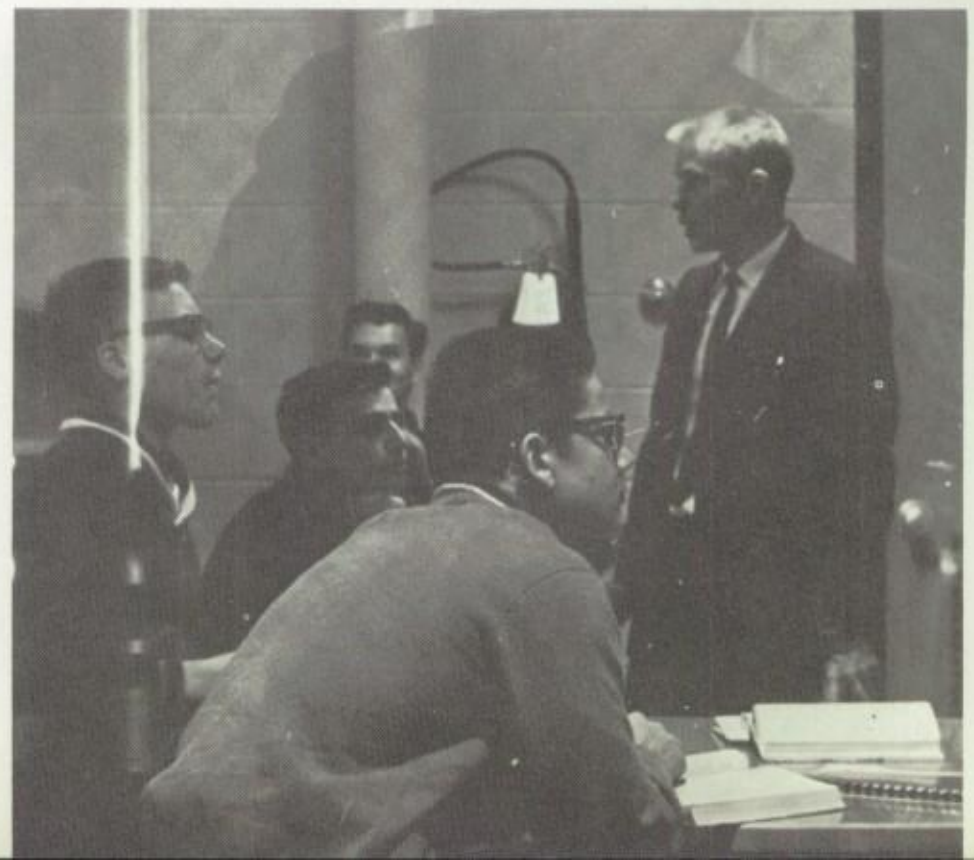

All of our fabulous mechanisms for the measurement of time and space have left the question unanswered. The sun and the seasons, men and machines, systems and institutions all ascribe to the age-old law of change.

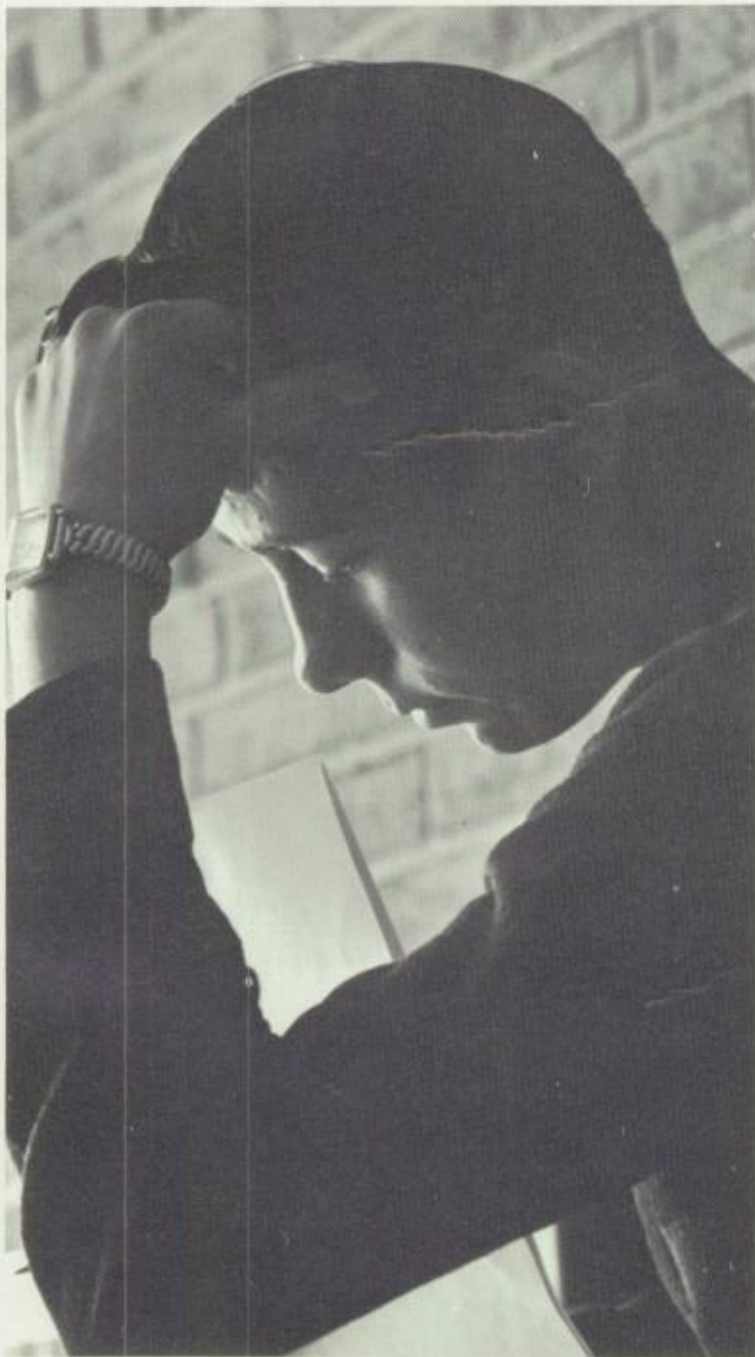

But just as surely as man-made satellites soar in the heavens, each new generation thrusts its youthful shoulder to the task of arresting the brute force of time. Those golden moments of carefree laughter, the sombre-hued moments of enlightenment and discovery, the shining moments of friendship and comradeship . . . seem too precious to be drowned in the darkening well of time.

And yet, even as we clasp the hand of a classmate, or reach out eagerly for the knowledge our teachers offer, or lift our voices in united song, we unconsciously sense that the forces of nature are conspiring to erase all the wonders of youth—and to replace them with the challenges and responsibilities of adulthood.

One fleeting school year—such a brief moment in time—and yet it is crowded with memories which in other moments will adorn the walls of the long corridor of time. That that corridor will always be illumined with clear and bright images is the purpose of your yearbook.

We cannot stop time in its headlong gallop to infinity, but we can preserve for you, in picture and word, your MOMENT IN TIME. And to this purpose, we dedicate the 1963 TARTAN.

Just beyond reach . . .

That's where their future lies . . .

Rough stone, ready to be chiseled . . .

Ready to be shaped and sanded . . .

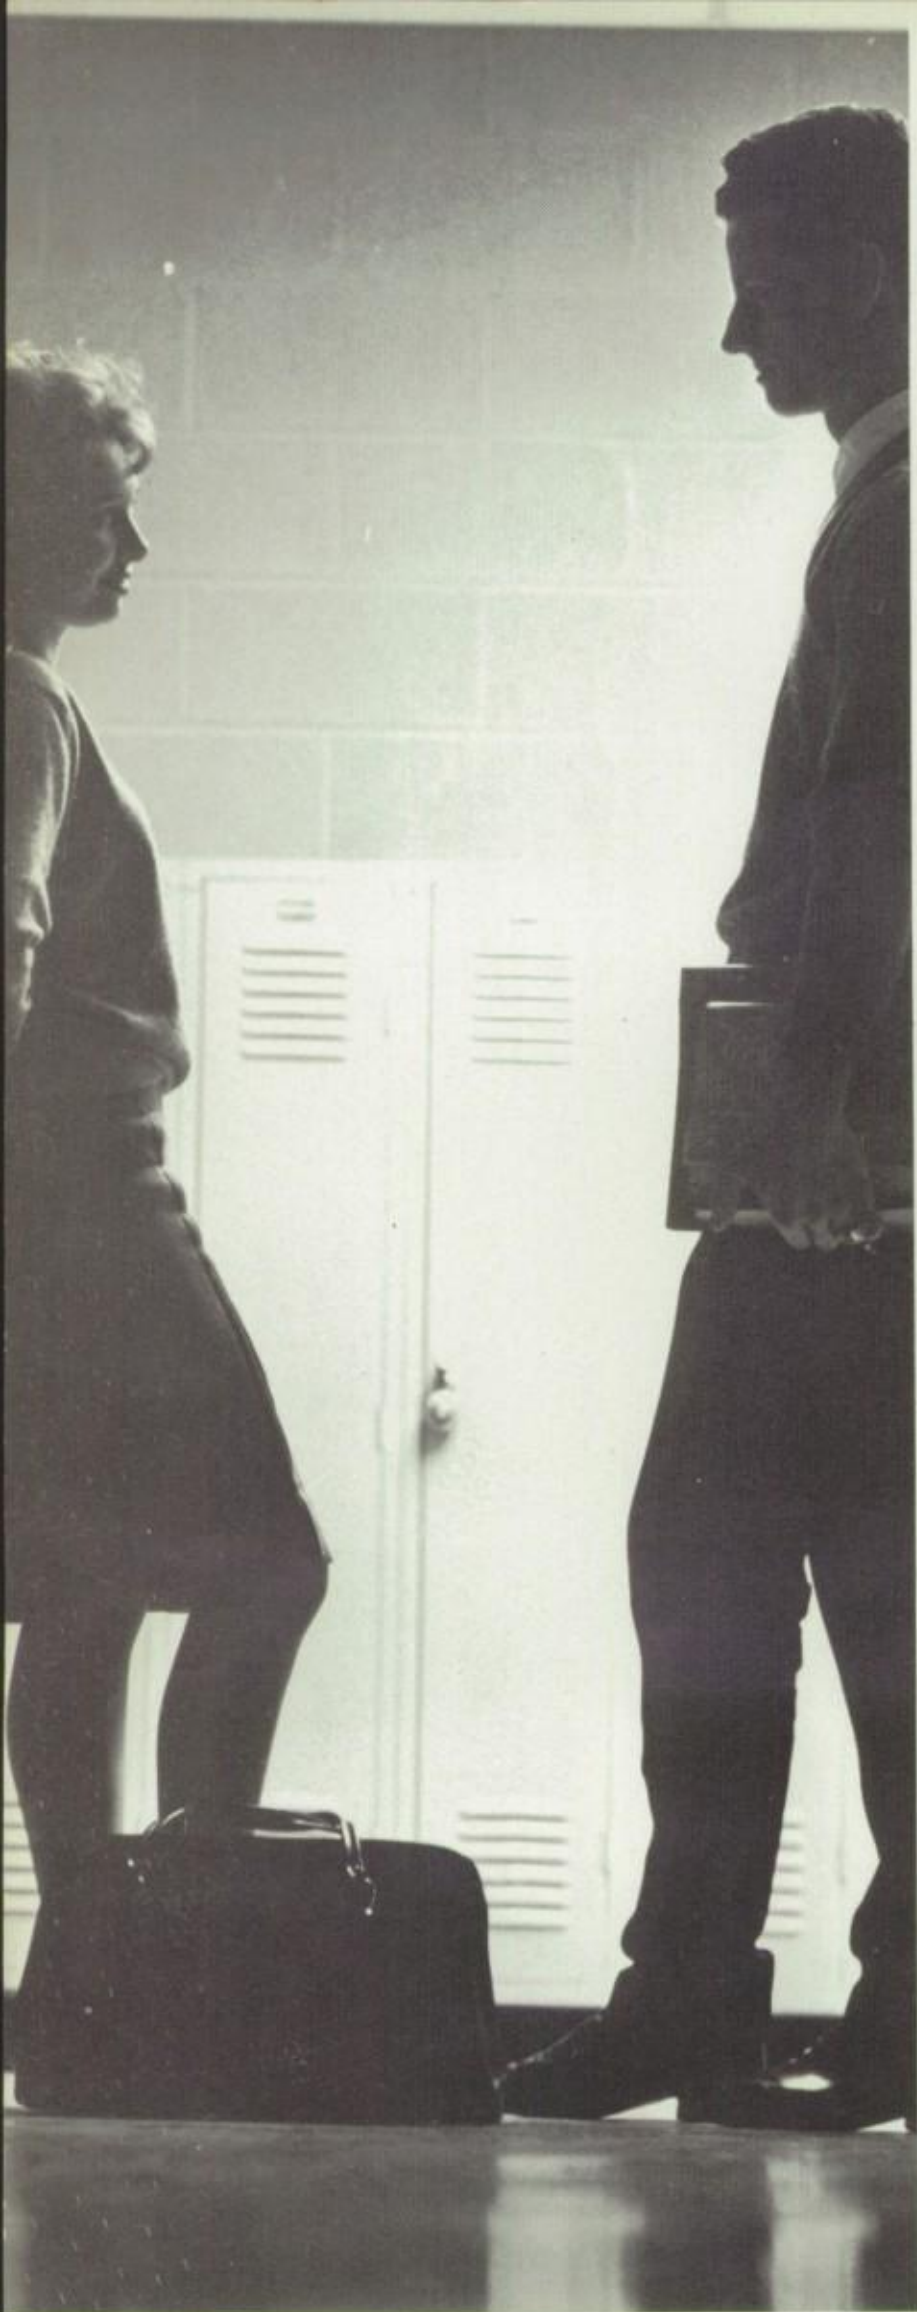

Moments
Of Silence

MOMENTS OF SILENCE ARE FEW . . . secret, stolen moments of solitude broken only by the rhythm of a heartbeat . . . when we have time for hopes . . . and fears . . . and dreams.

Moments
Of Companionship

MOMENTS OF COMPANIONSHIP . . . fill our days. Maybe you heard a secret . . . or laughed . . . or worked out a problem . . . or made a date for Saturday night. Moments reeling through the blur of a busy day . . . but wonderful . . . because . . .

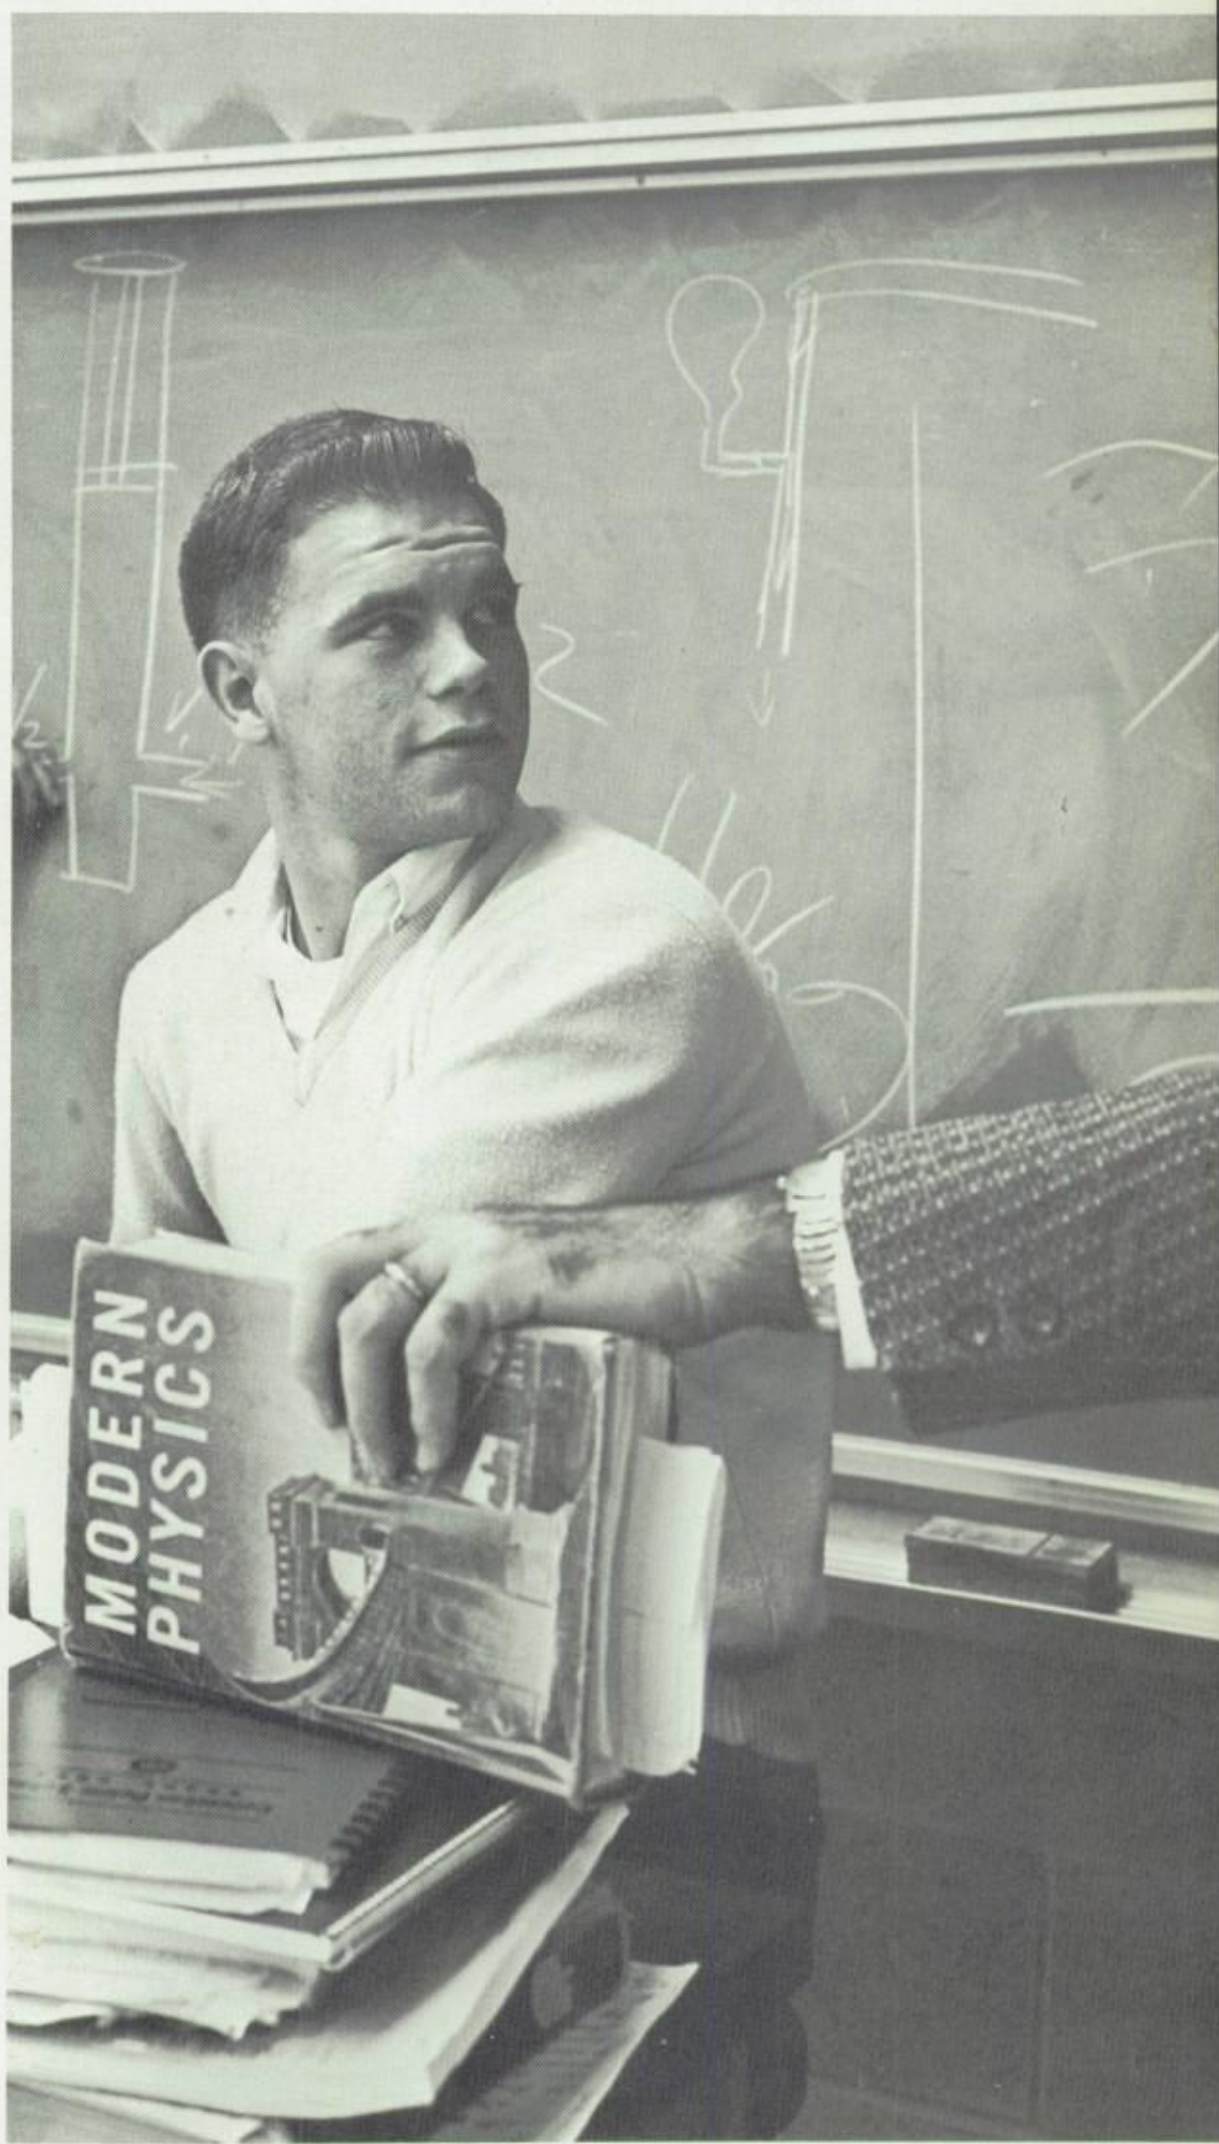

you shared them with a friend.

Moments Of Inquiry

MOMENTS OF INQUIRY . . . are characteristic of youth. We faced challenges . . . met questions to be answered. We found the answers everywhere . . . in the forceful explanation of a teacher . . . in the pages of a book we didn't have to read . . . or even in the admiring eyes of a friend whom we had helped with a problem.

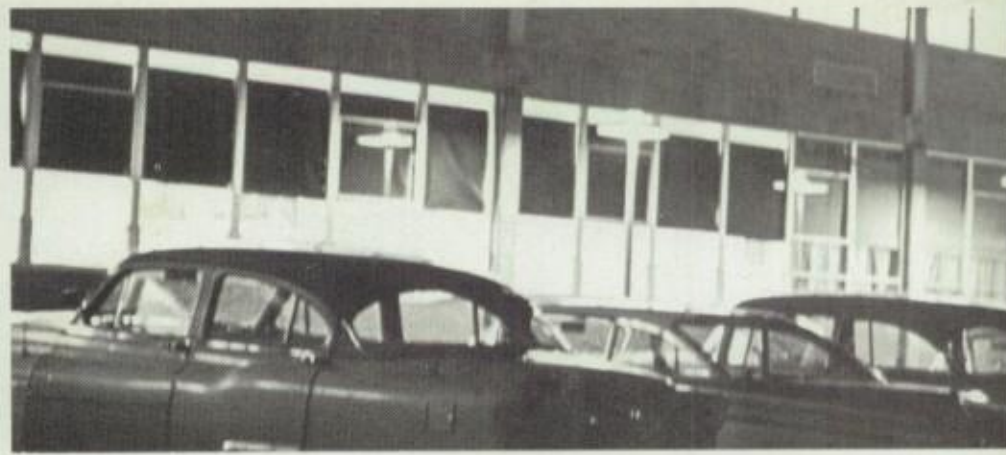

Moments Of Loyalty

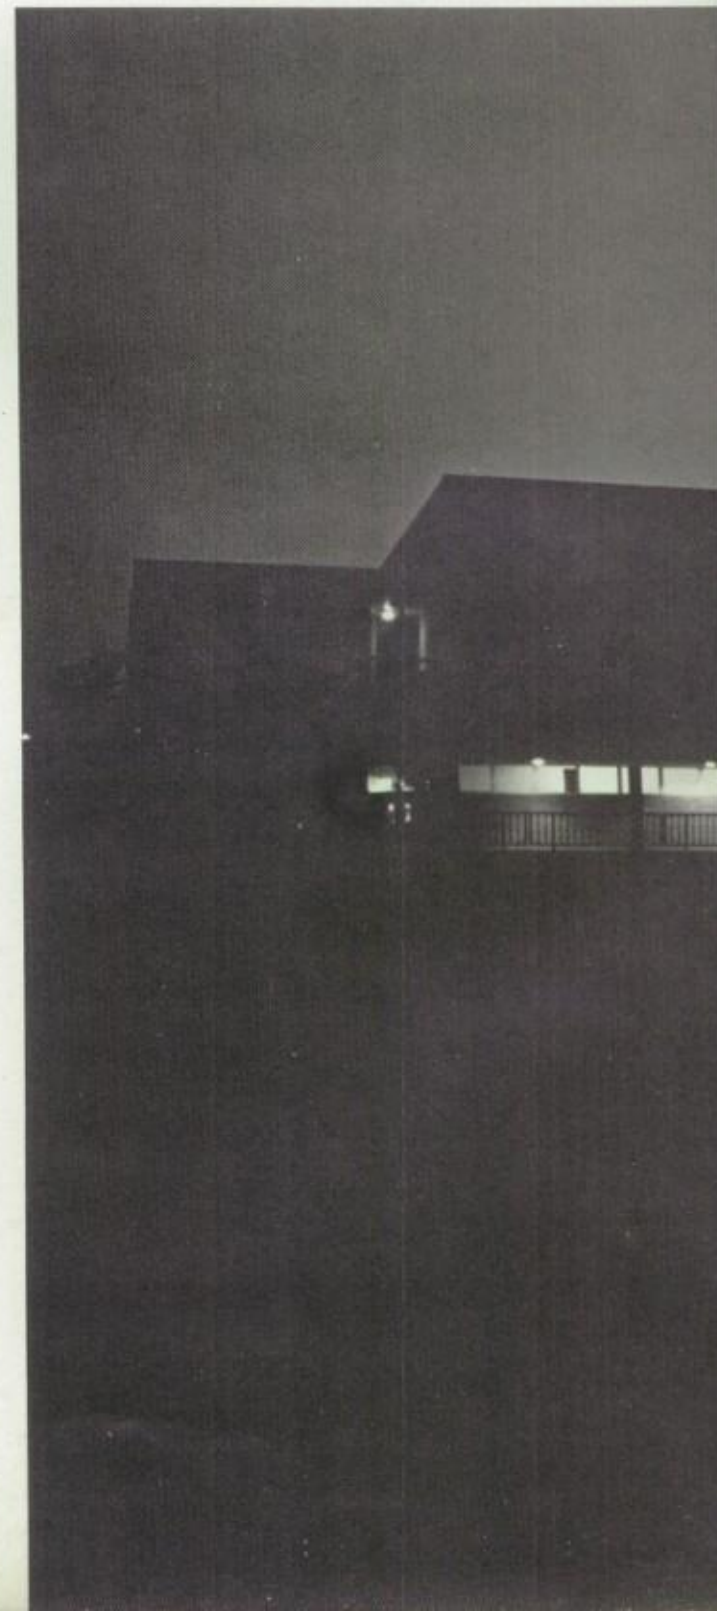

MOMENTS OF LOYALTY . . . Who can explain the tears in the eyes of a boy who missed the foul shot . . . or the hoarse voice of a cheerleader who, by the sheer force of pep and personality, willed her team to win? Who can analyze the dynamic force that impells 1,000 kids to hold their breaths, or in another moment, to break the silence of a winter night with a frenzied cheer. What inspires those moments of heartaches and hysteria? Perhaps it is the knowledge every one of us at Walnut Ridge has played some small part in watching a structure of brick and mortar transformed into a school which is a symbol of our finest aspirations.

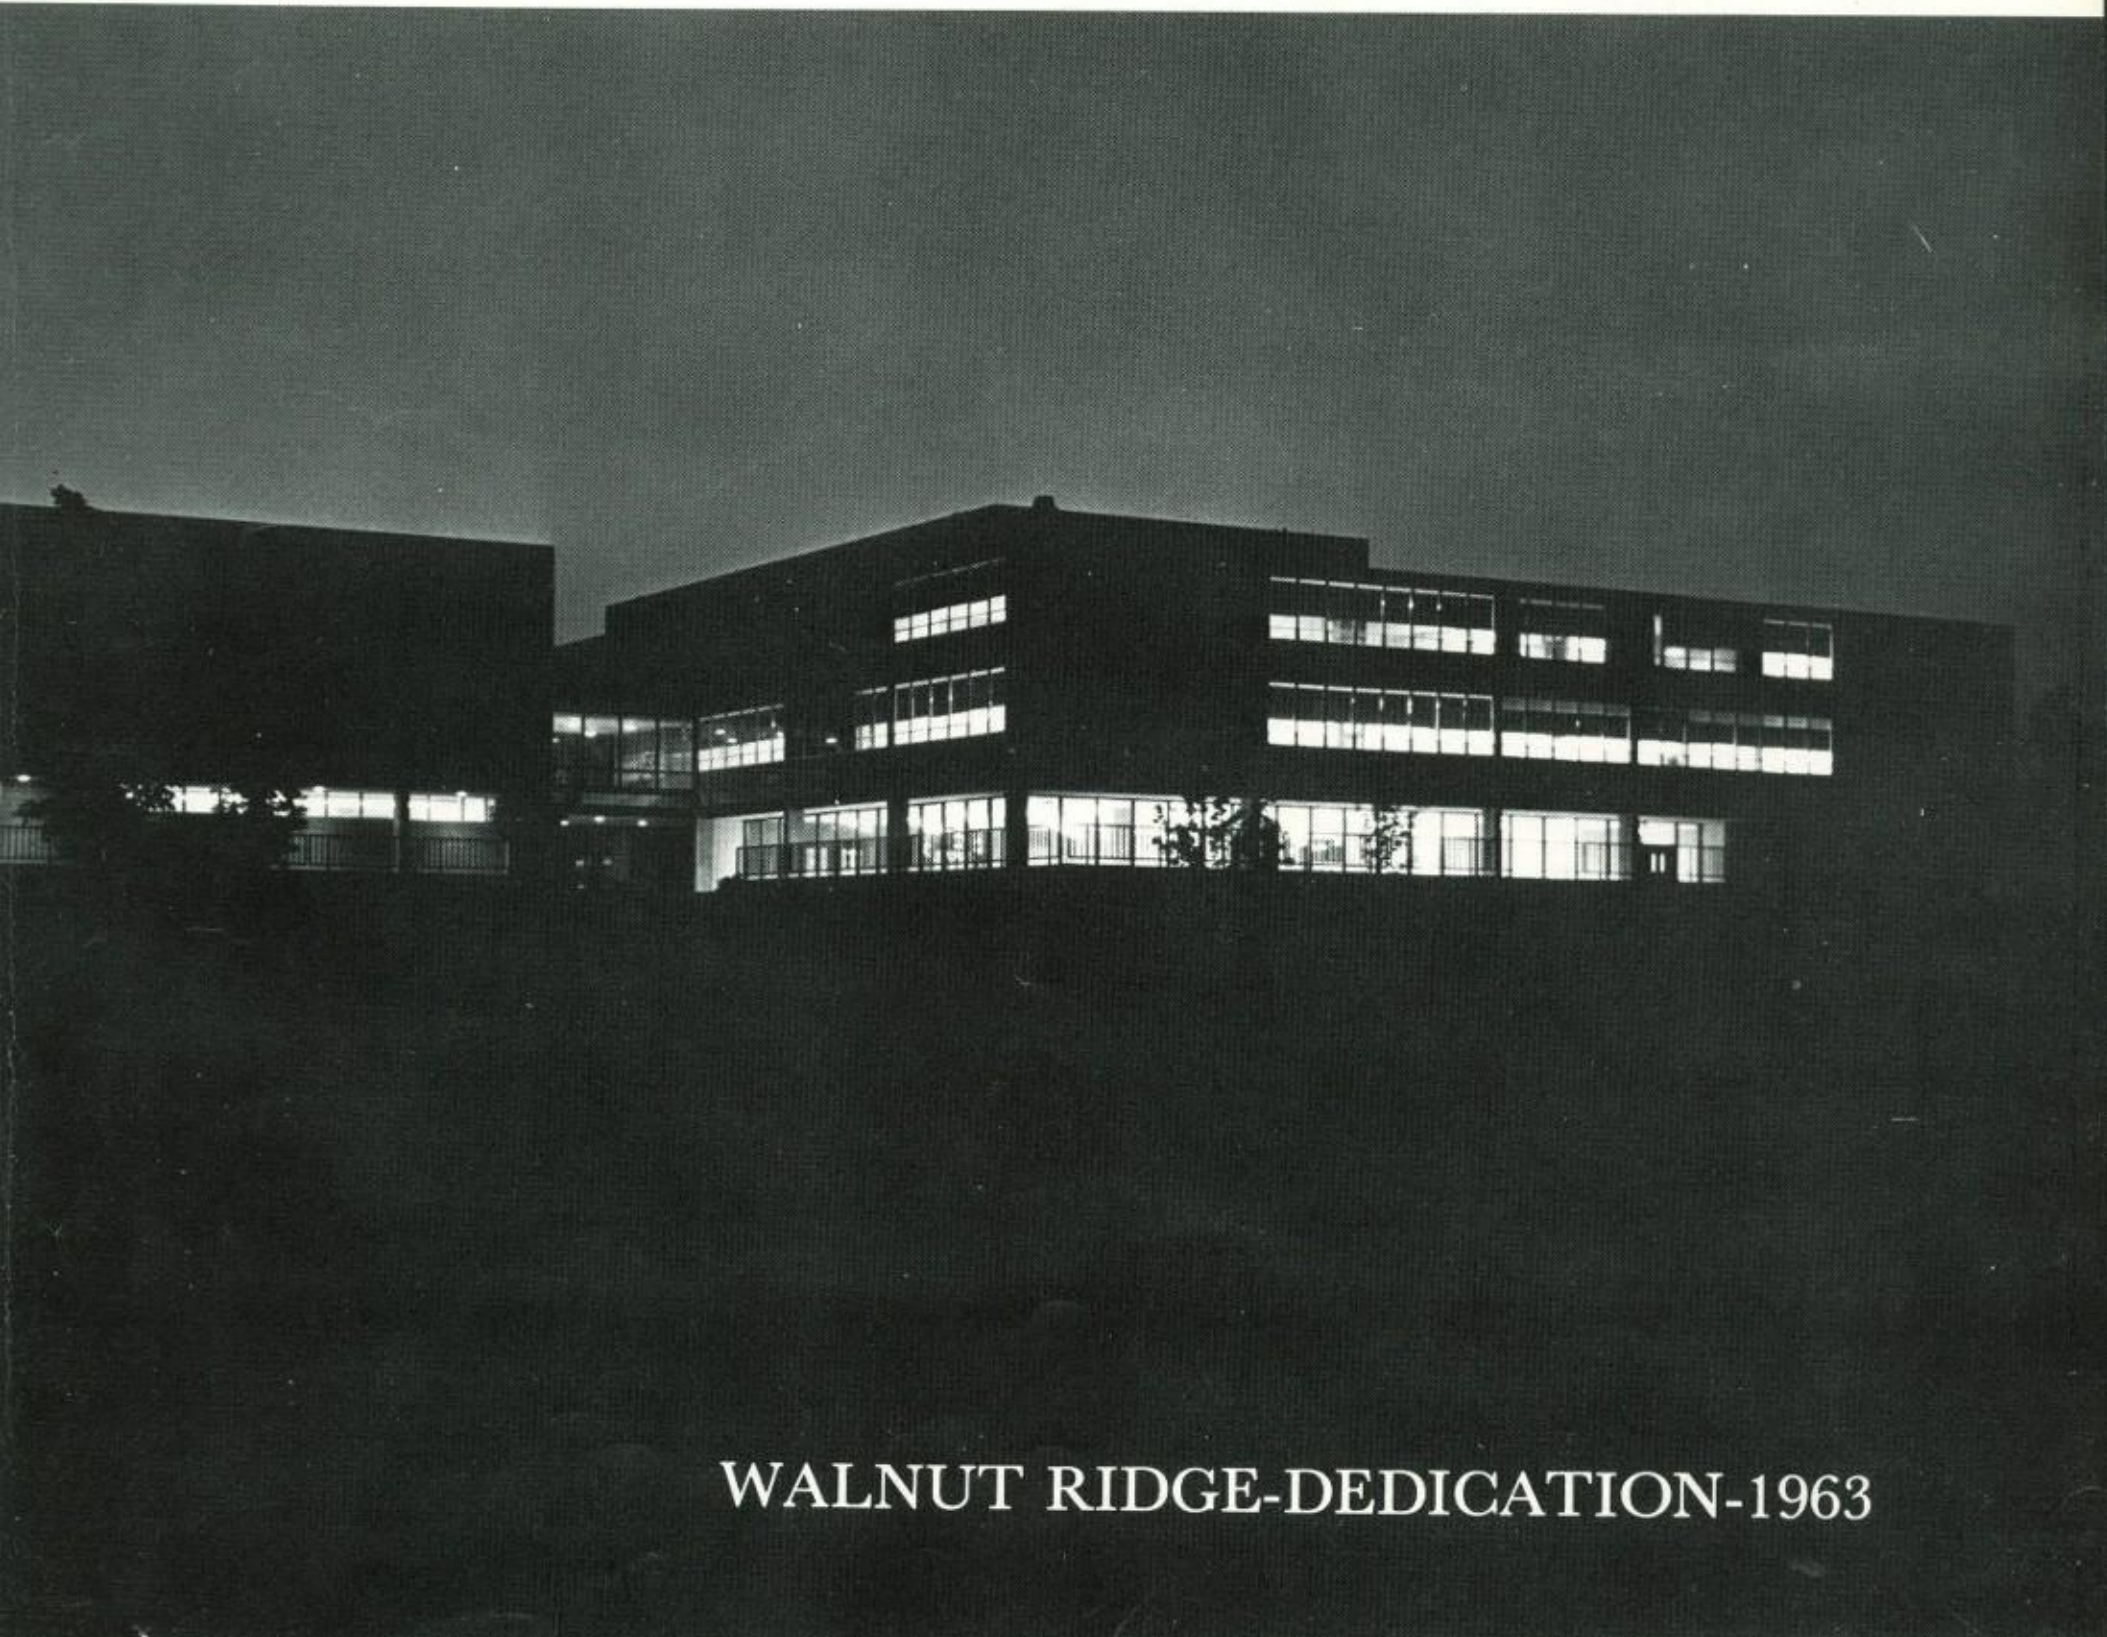

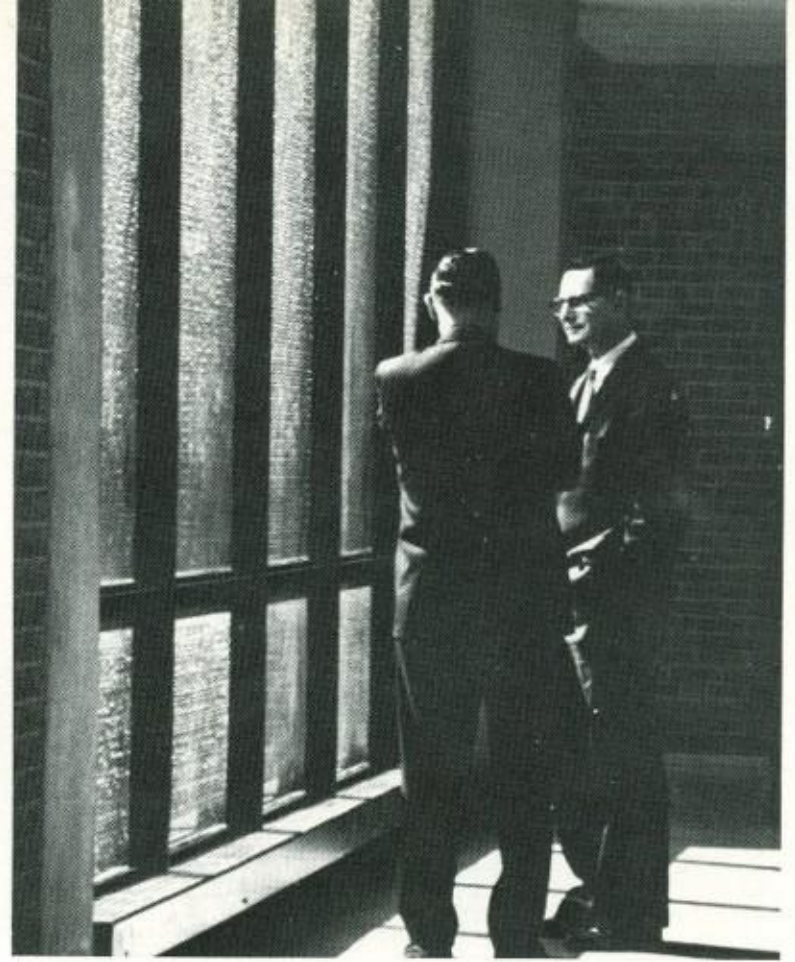

Countless hours . . . months . . . years of planning and foresight . . . are culminated in this moment. Sturdy walls . . . and gleaming halls . . . echo the laughter . . . reflect the images of those who are privileged to learn . . . and grow . . . in an atmosphere which symbolizes

Of Pride
. . . And Humility

the finest educational goals of this free nation. Walnut Ridge . . . on this night in October, 1962 . . . was dedicated to those goals. And those who spoke . . . or sang . . . or listened . . . felt proud . . . and somehow . . . humble.

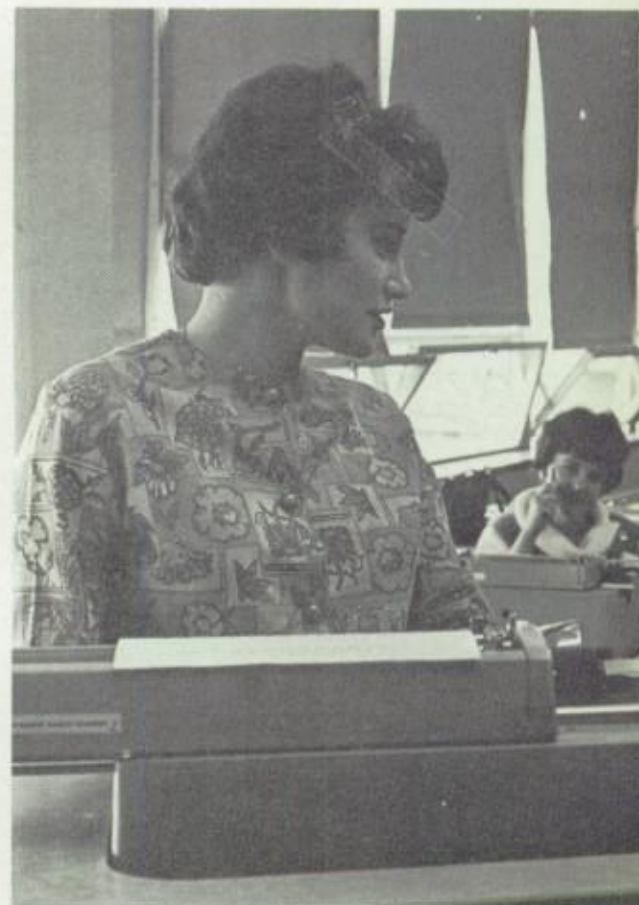

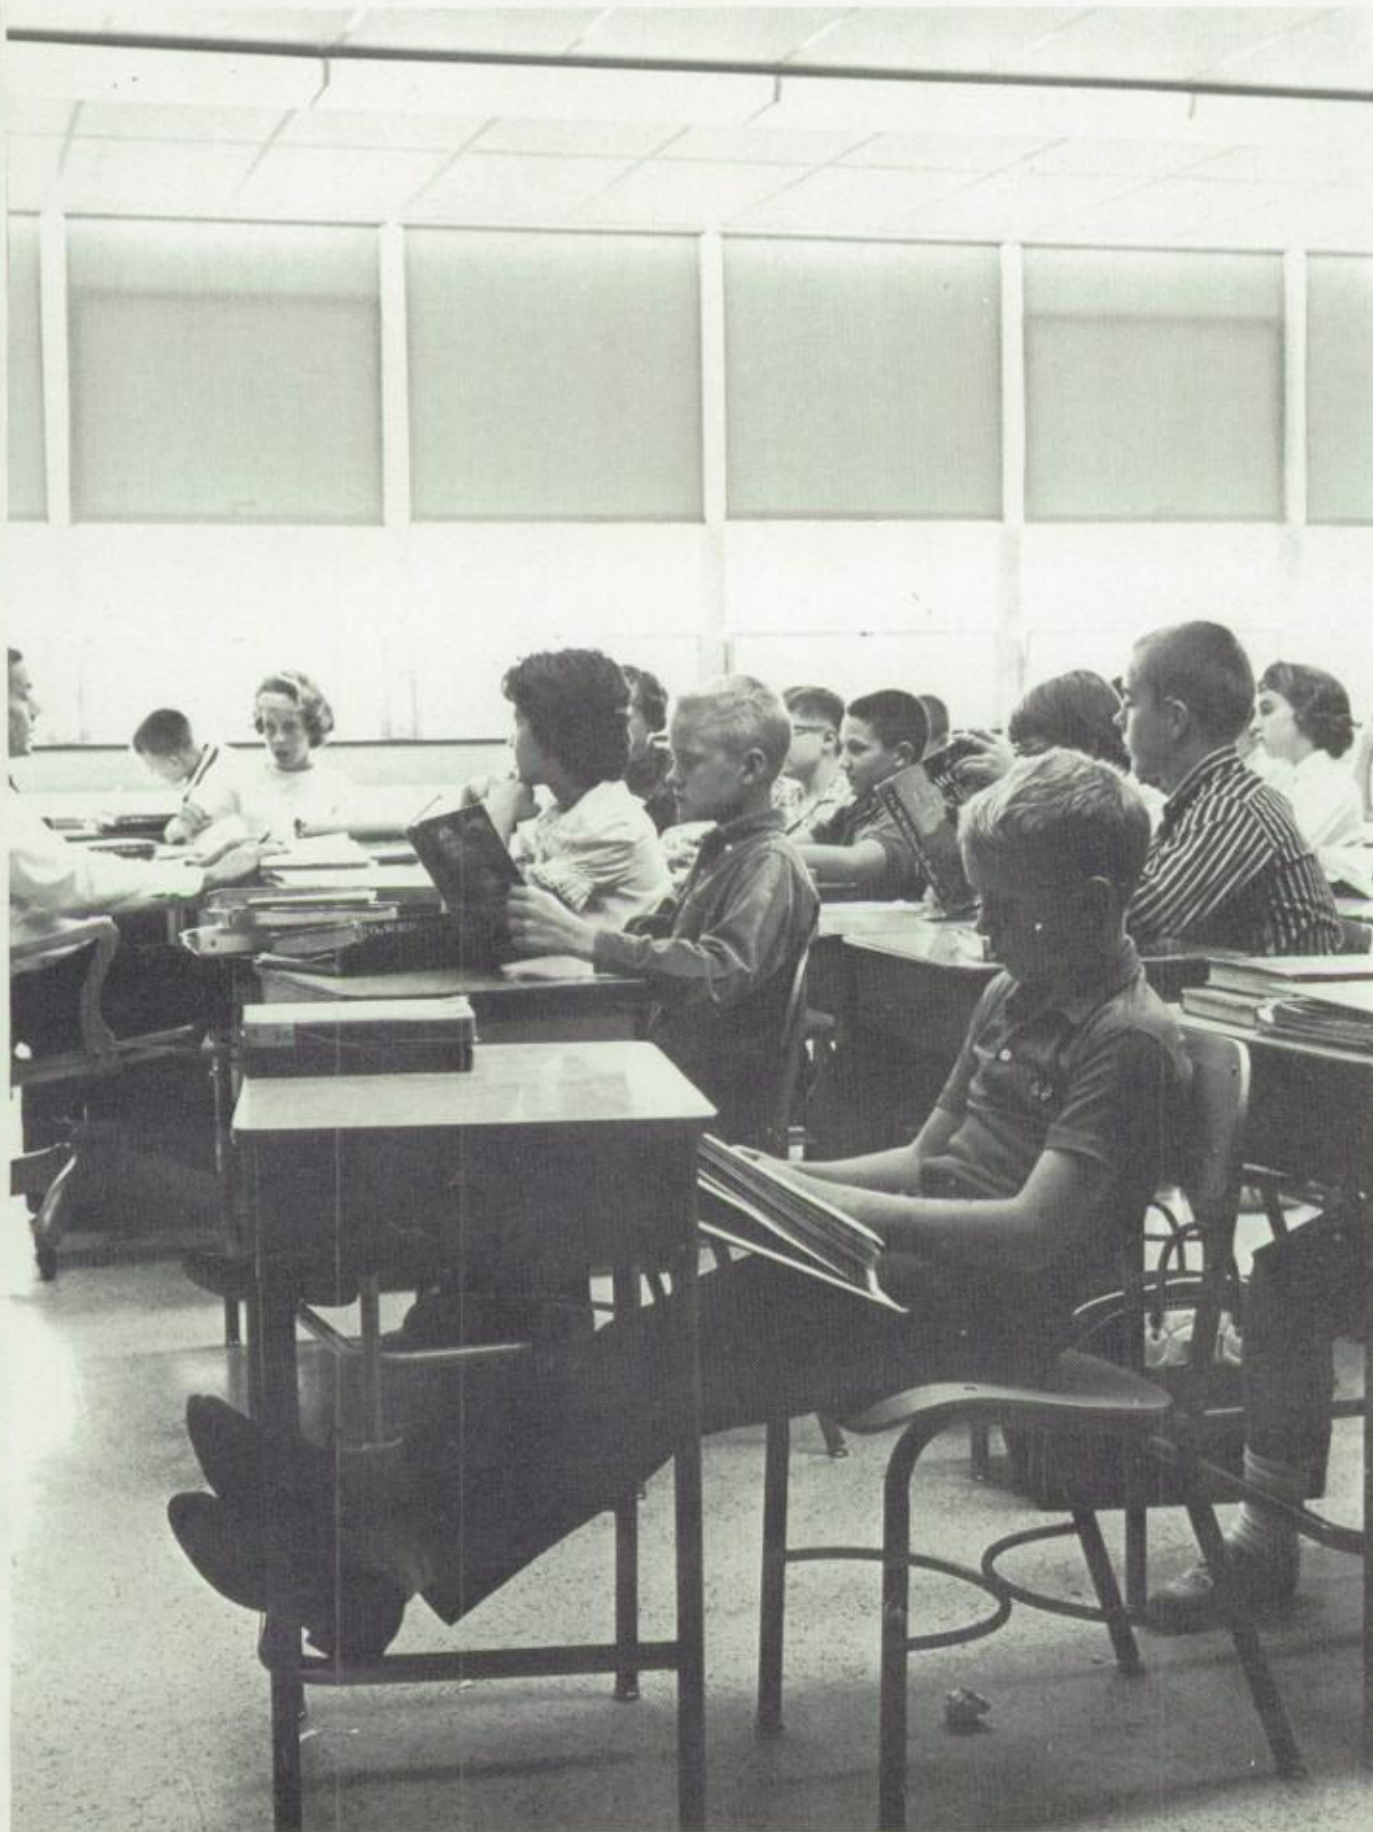

WALNUT RIDGE-DEDICATION-1963

WE DEVELOP . . .

Inquiring Minds

At this hour in the life of man . . .
when he can hang in space to see the earth . . .
and in the next instant may reach the moon . . .
youth's greatest responsibility is academic preparedness.
In these classes . . . with these teachers . . .
we meet the challenges of today . . .
with our eyes on the distant horizons of tomorrow.

Don E. Thatcher
Principal

The bustling center of a sprawling school: Mrs. Konkle and Mrs. Davis must handle varied duties as they work to eliminate potential snarls in Walnut Ridge's administrative activities.

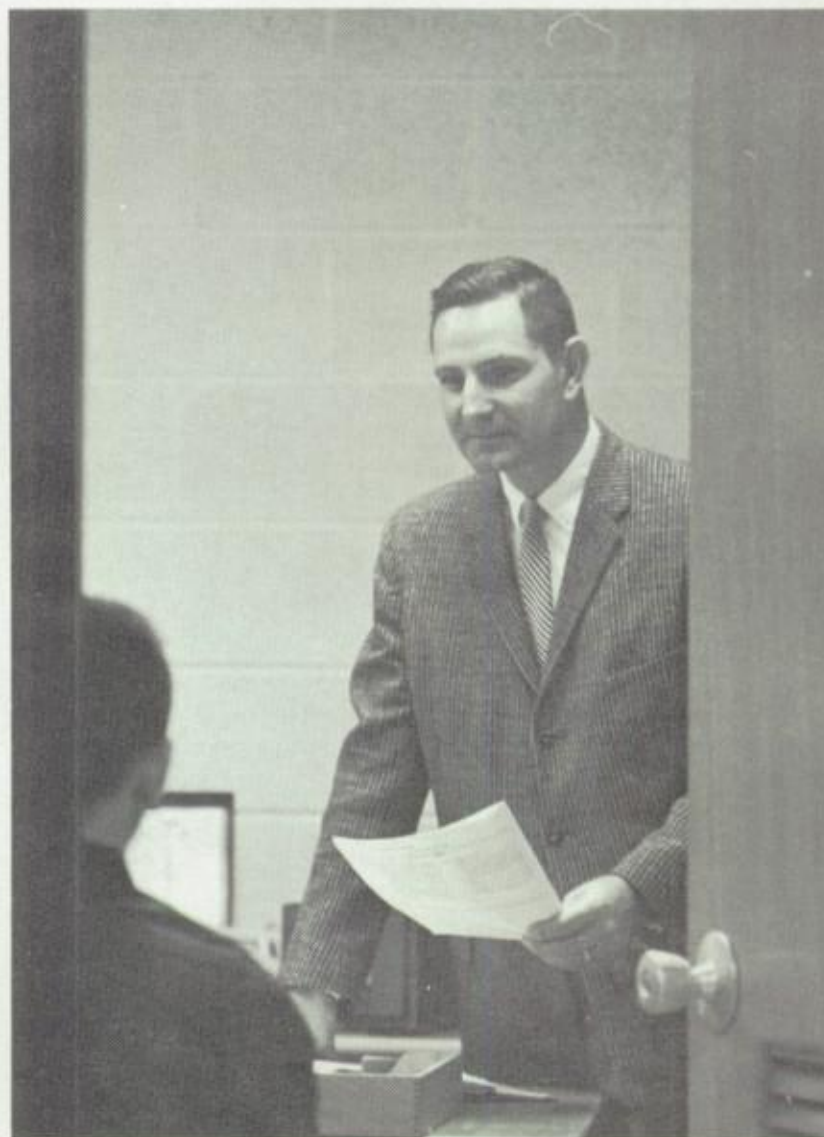

Moments Of Responsibility

"This is the year!" became a familiar phrase at Walnut Ridge in 1962-63. These were among the first words spoken to the student body when it assembled in the fall. The spirit of the phrase caught on . . . challenging us to excel in all phases of school life. Since Walnut Ridge opened its doors in 1961, with only a cowbell to summon over 1,000 students to enter and become a unified student body, Don E. Thatcher has offered the type of administrative leadership which can make an almost impossible dream come true.

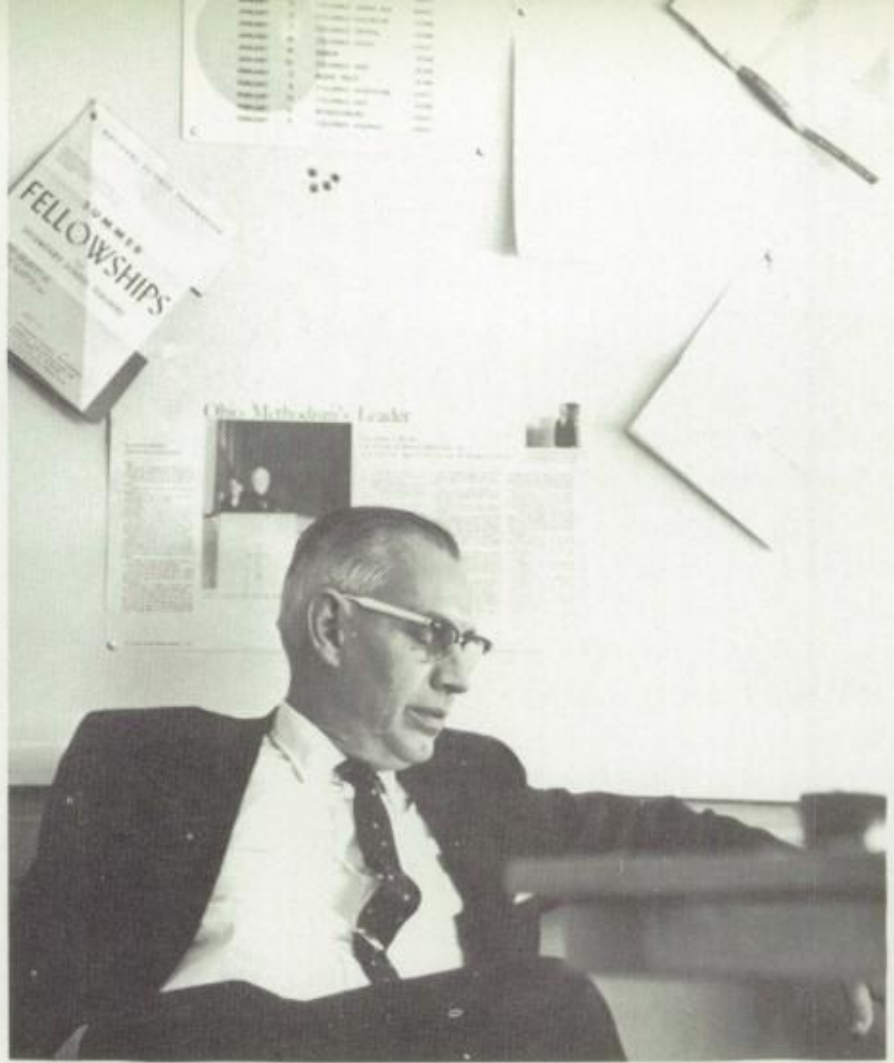

Mr. Thatcher believes in Walnut Ridge . . . in its faculty . . . in its students . . . in its potential to become one of the most respected institutions in the Columbus system. And because of his faith . . . even in the face of countless obstacles . . . we found inspiration to make his prediction come true.

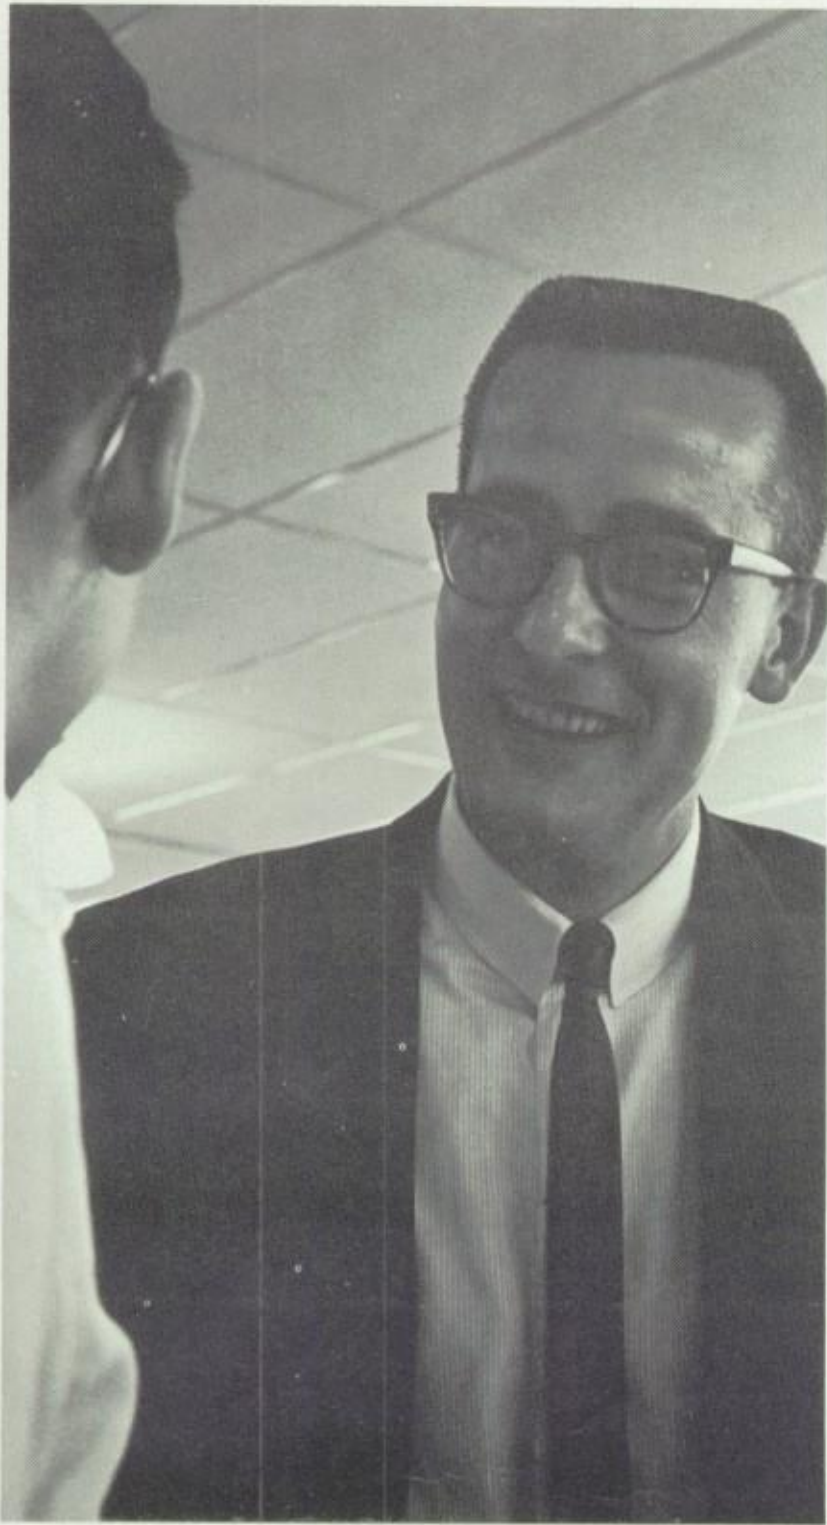

Sharing in those moments of responsibility . . . in the long hours and late suppers . . . in the mounds of administrative paper work . . . and the countless problems waiting to be solved . . . is the man who has assumed his task willingly—and always with a grin of good humor—Mr. Philip Fulton, second in command at Walnut Ridge.

Philip Fulton
Vice-Principal

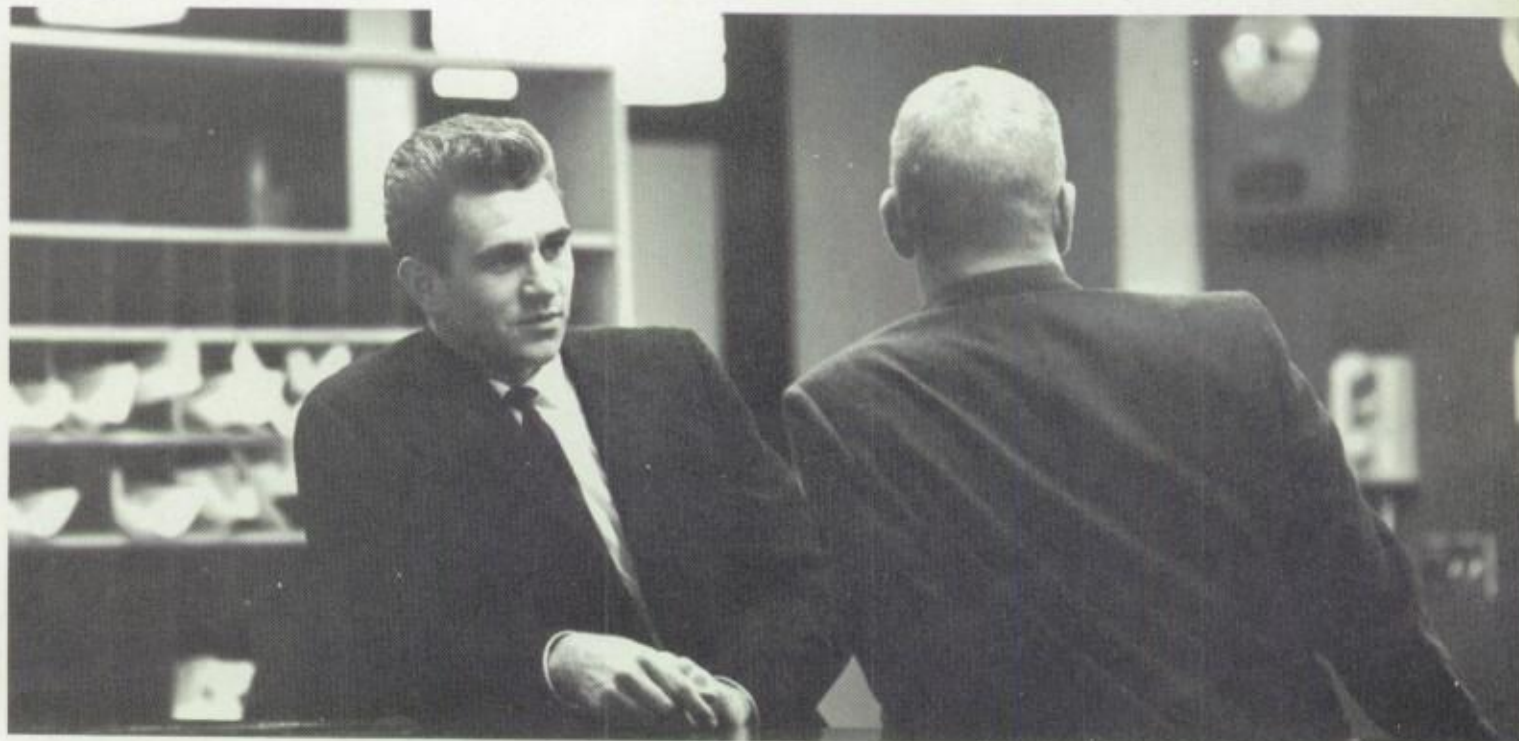

Moments Of Dedication

MOMENTS OF DEDICATION . . . What is the measure of a moment of dedication? Mr. Spaulding began a new day . . . convinced that yesterday's disappointments would not alter today's determination to succeed . . . Mrs. Abraham found time to work on the dance decorations and to meet with the senior cabinet . . . Mr. Kraner arranged for the new book shipment . . . Mr. Stein found a quiet moment to think about tomorrow's Latin assignment . . . Mr. Wynkoop and Mr. Cermelj decided that Bill needed a good talking-to if he were to remain eligible . . . Mr. Lodge said, "No," but he walked away smiling.

The moments of dedication slip by . . . unobserved . . . and a bell signals that another class is waiting.

Communication with the student is the greatest asset a good teacher can possess. Mr. Spaulding is engrossed in employing this skill for his students' benefit.

Moments In Academics

Advanced biology, a recent addition to our curriculum, is based upon independent study and first-hand observation. Mr. Kraner assists several students in examining the mechanics of the circulatory system of a frog.

Perfection develops only from long, and sometimes lonely, practice. Everyone else is gone except these two members of the Junior High Band.

The burden that often accompanies the acquisition of knowledge: a test. Jerry Mossing and Tom Coneybeer, for a moment on their own in P.O.D. class, scan their own papers as they compare answers on the test Mr. Pruitt has just returned.

This year, a course in auto mechanics offers a new learning experience to the fifteen boys taking the seven and one-half hours required. Dirty hands, soiled by practical experience and a new kind of responsibility, can build a secure tomorrow.

Creation requires concentration. Karen Woods, oblivious to all else, molds a study of mother and child.

Walnut Ridge's language laboratory offers electronic aid to teacher and pupil in the development of both fluency and comprehension of an unfamiliar tongue. Nicole Stone pauses, intent upon the patient explanations of an authoritative voice.

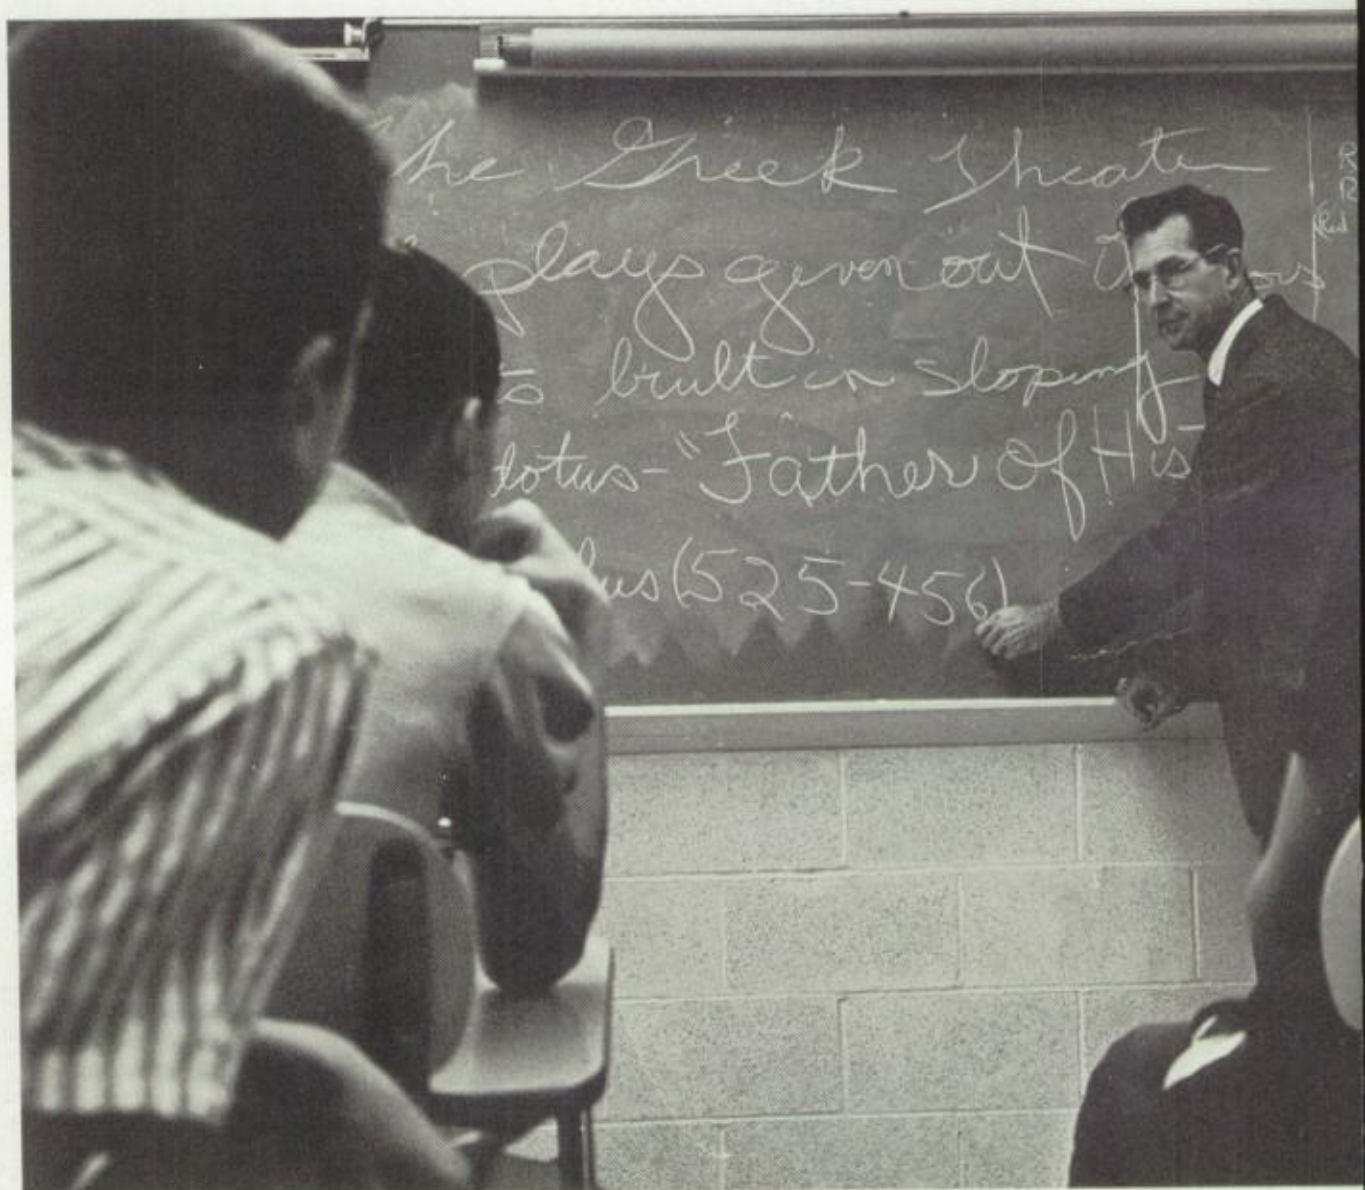

Ron Remey, instilled with the confidence that comes from knowing how, works swiftly and surely as he places the finishing touches upon his latest project.

Karl Lau begins, under the watchful eye of a vigilant Mr. Sharp, to become acquainted with the rudimentary principles of stroking and rhythm.

Driver's Education, organized for the first time this year at Walnut Ridge, has aroused active interest. Mr. McKnight pauses here to offer encouragement to several uncertain students.

Through the students' eyes, a teacher is a figure of both knowledge and discipline. Mr. Wolfe's quizzical glance is commanding, calling for a quickly correct answer.

A straight seam can be the difference that will produce an excellent fit. Cheryl Kelling, realizing this, is engrossed in her task.

Boys' Ensemble isn't just another class. A special kind of effort is required to develop a very special talent.

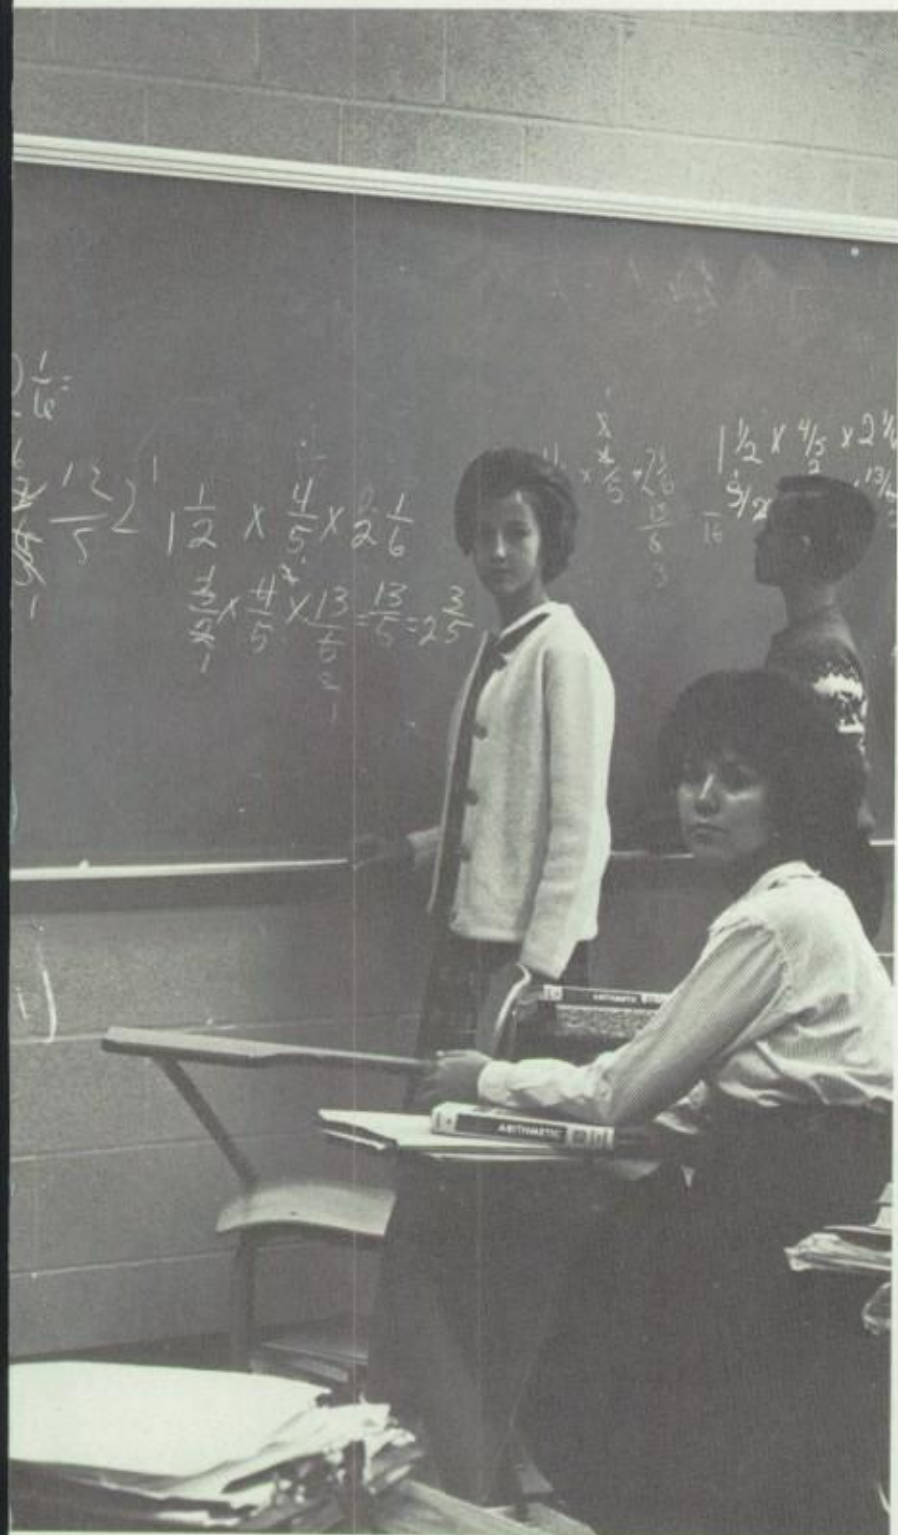

It's getting later. Even Mr. Berry has gone. Yet Dave Rader, anxious to smooth those last few notes into an even rhythm, remains.

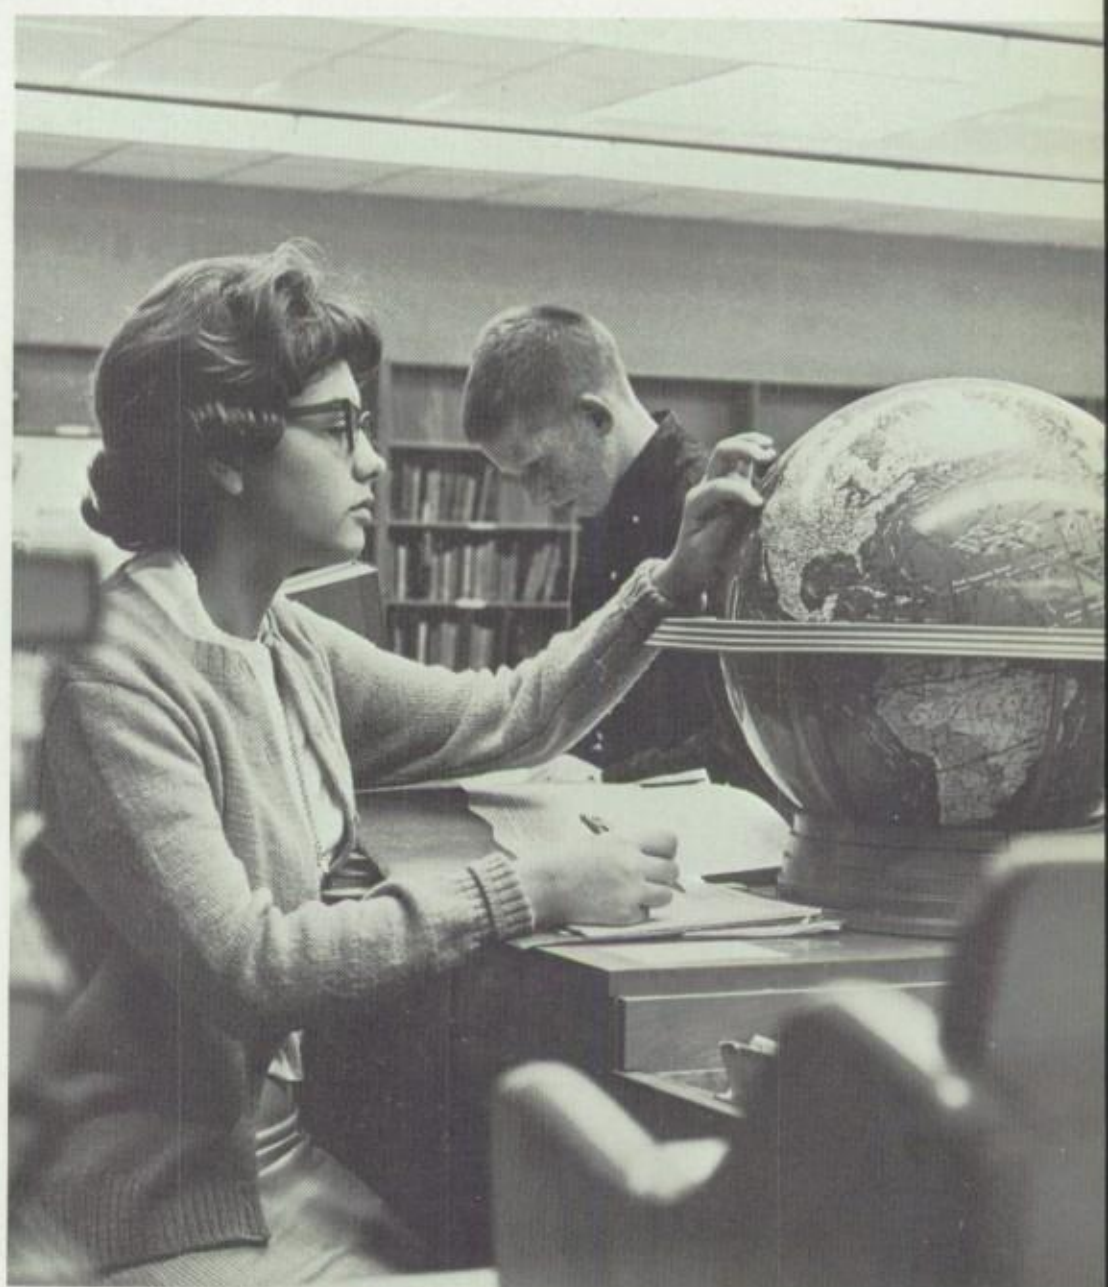

It's satisfying to see the obscure principles you have been memorizing for weeks transferred into actuality. These chemistry students, working with magnesium, are engrossed in viewing the mystery of oxidation they never quite understood before.

The transition from knowing how to actually being able to perform the action required is often difficult. Many members of Mr. Webster's mathematics class discover this as they perform the time-honored ritual of "drill-drill-drill."

In the quiet atmosphere of the library, learning seems like fun and the thrill of discovery is yours for the taking. Irene Clark, alone in a corner, finds that all the wonders of the world are literally at her fingertips.

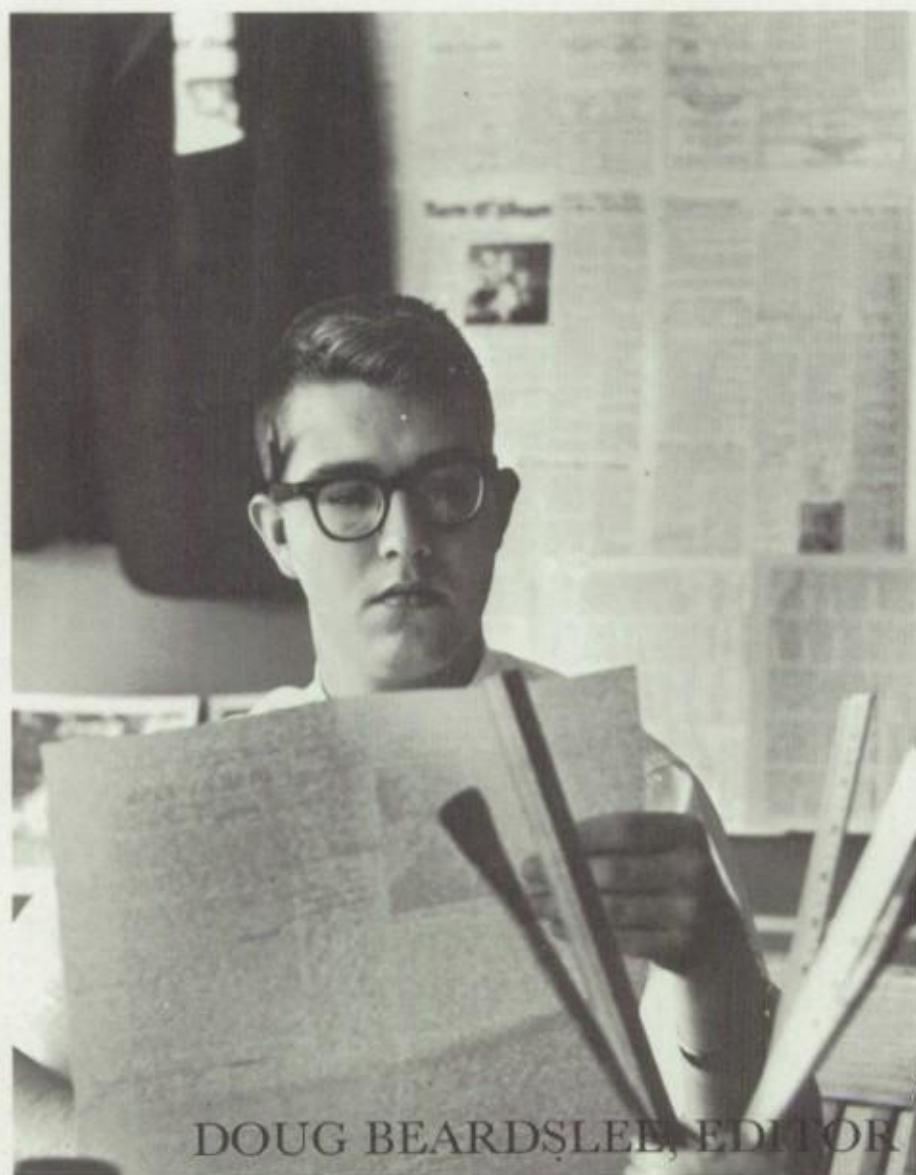

WE DISCOVER . . .

Widening Scopes of Interest

The myriad organizations which flourish at Walnut Ridge reflect the diversified interests of 1,400 students. An "activity" can mean anything from an intent chess game in the student lounge to an afternoon deadline session that lasts until one. However, students soon learn that activities are meant to complement and never to replace academic responsibilities.

First Journalism Class Publishes Tam O'Shan

DOUG BEARDSLEE, EDITOR

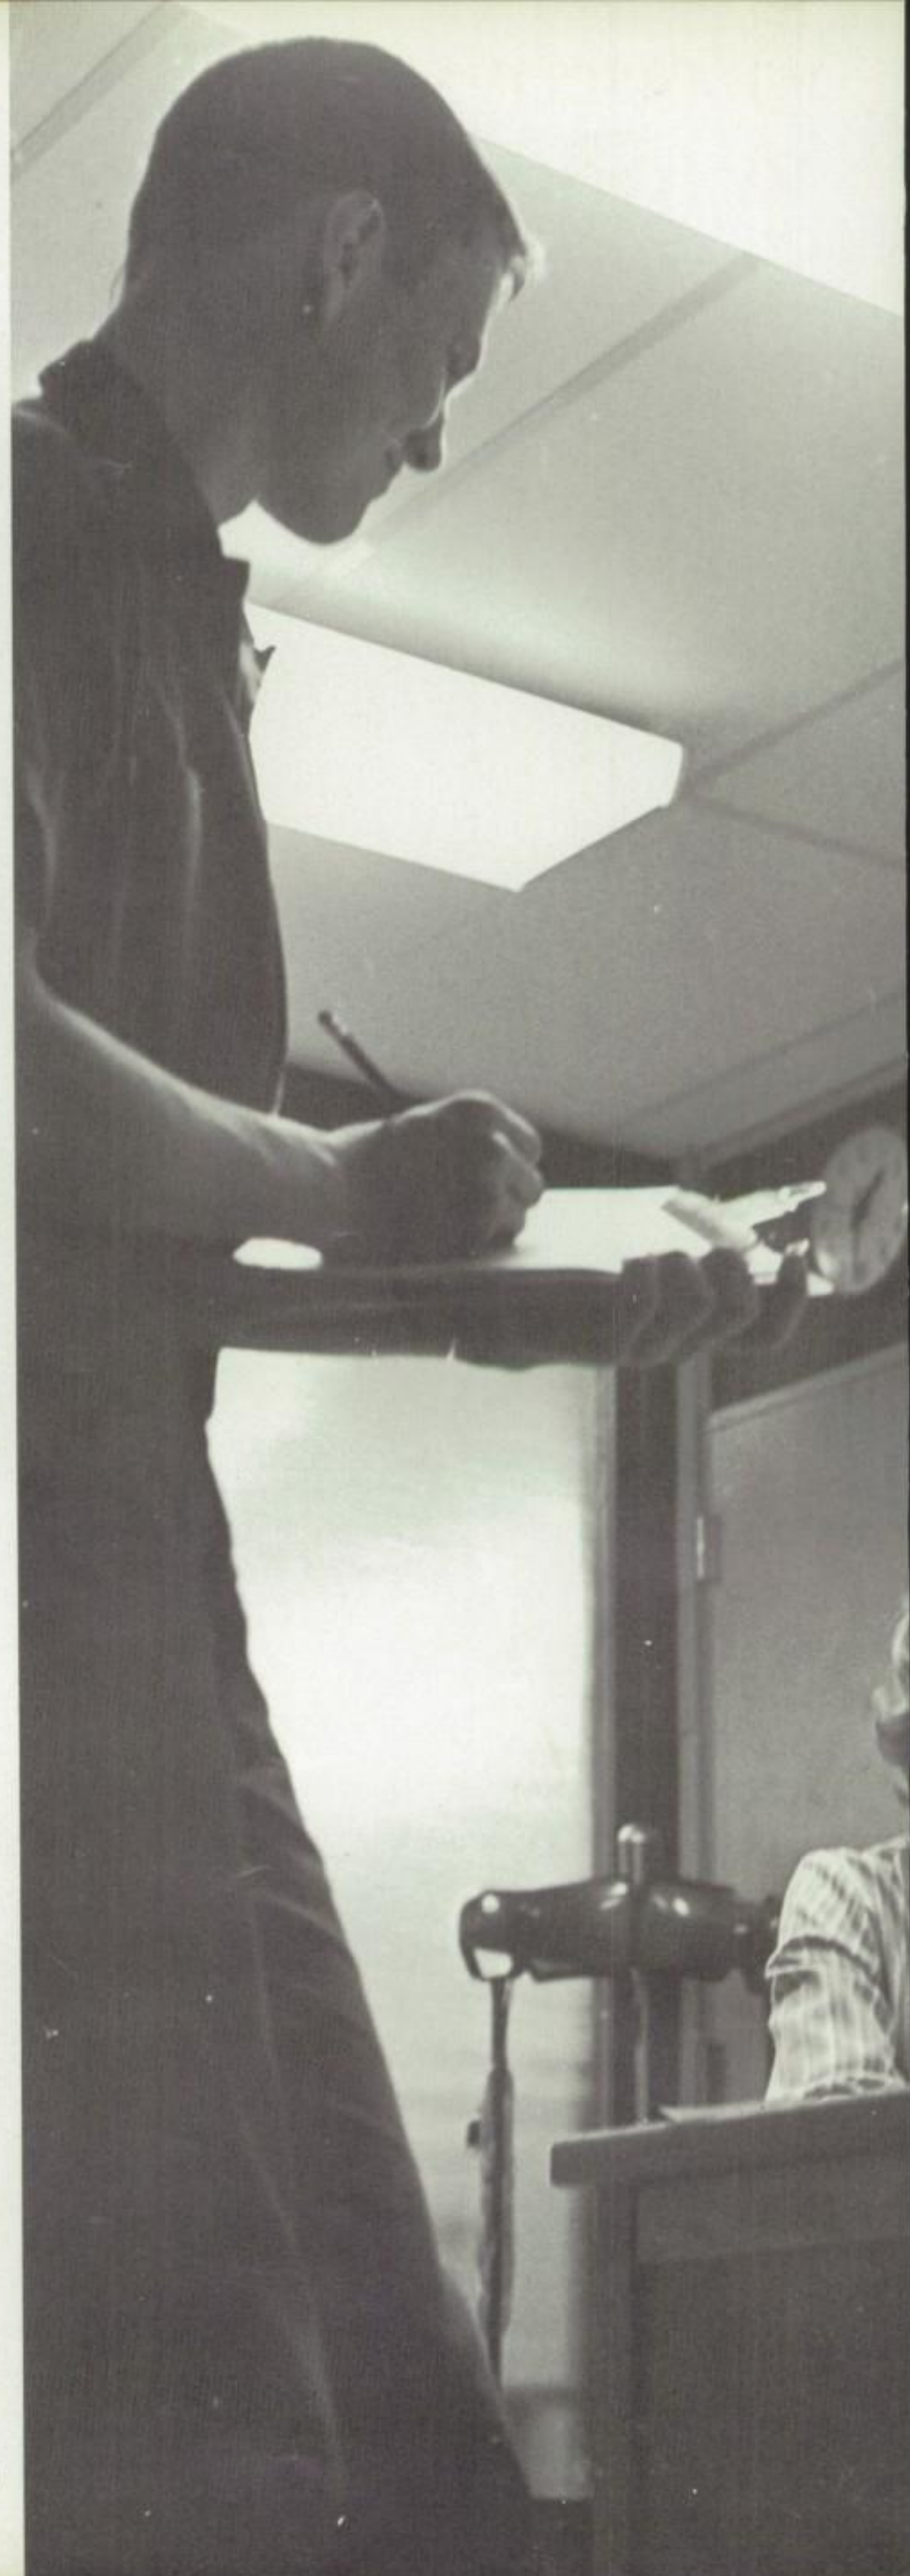

"Ten issues of the first Walnut Ridge High School newspaper coming right up!"

So stated the bold, aggressive, and thoroughly naive first journalism class when they heard vague details about their task. In September, they unknowingly plunged with their advisor, Mrs. Regules, into a crazy, mixed-up world of deadlines, headlines, and headaches.

October 12: "Nine more issues to go!" The staff made this statement with a lot less vigor than before their encounters with reporting, copy reading, and 1,000 other skills of journalism.

But by May 31, they were able to say that they had made it. Barely. But they made it with the satisfaction of having given Walnut Ridge an accurate record of the 1962-63 school year.

Tam O'Shan reporter, Ken Evans, demonstrates his ability to "just get the facts, ma'am" from Mrs. Abraham, student activities director.

Late hours and looming deadlines combined to make large headaches for the thirty-two printers' devils who labored long into the night under pressure to make every issue of the Tam O'Shan somehow better than the one before.

As in any organization, certain people sift to the top because they're willing to work to stay there. On the Tam O'Shan these were the people who were willing to stay a little later and write a few extra stories. A few members of this circle of editorial assistants consult with Mrs. Regules as deadline time nears.

You pay your money and take your choice. Marcia Rountree supervises the bake sale selections of Chris Lindenberg, Jim Silvania, Kerney Pinkston, and Jim Schirtzinger. Sales were monthly events of the Council.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Name, rank, and hall pass, please. Hall monitor, Connie Hillyard, dutifully asks the required questions of passerby, Jim Silvania.

'Twas just before Christmas...and Susie Thorn, Diane Baxter, and Yvonne Saurin simulate "Christmas card" background for the Old Fashioned Christmas Dance.

The Christmas spirit seems to be infectious as Mrs. Abraham enlists the aid of Hi-Y members in preparing food baskets for needy families. The Y-Teens and Hi-Y clubs joined forces for this service project in December.

Hi-Y Groups

NINTH HI-Y

Officers: president, Dan Arledge; vice-president, Dick Wollett; secretary, Jon Goodwin; treasurer, Pat Beveridge; sgt. at arms, Rick Houchen.

SENIOR HI-Y

Officers: president, Tim Hansley; vice-president, Larry Hansley; secretary, Chuck Peterson; treasurer, Doug Chalfant; sgt. at arms, Don Arledge; chaplain, Don Pinkston.

7-8 HI-Y

Hi-Y Officers get together to reminisce about the athletic accomplishments of the club. The organization only left out a fifty-mile hike as they competed in city leagues and came away with a first place trophy for touch football and the third place in swimming. The energetic outdoorsmen also went on a camp-out at the South-Side Y-Park.

GOURMET CLUB

Waistline watchers, beware! If it's a gourmet meeting, you can count on calories as well as good times. A party atmosphere prevailed at several meetings when the group enjoyed a Polynesian luncheon, a bowling party, (featuring a cake in the shape of a ball), and a valentine luncheon.

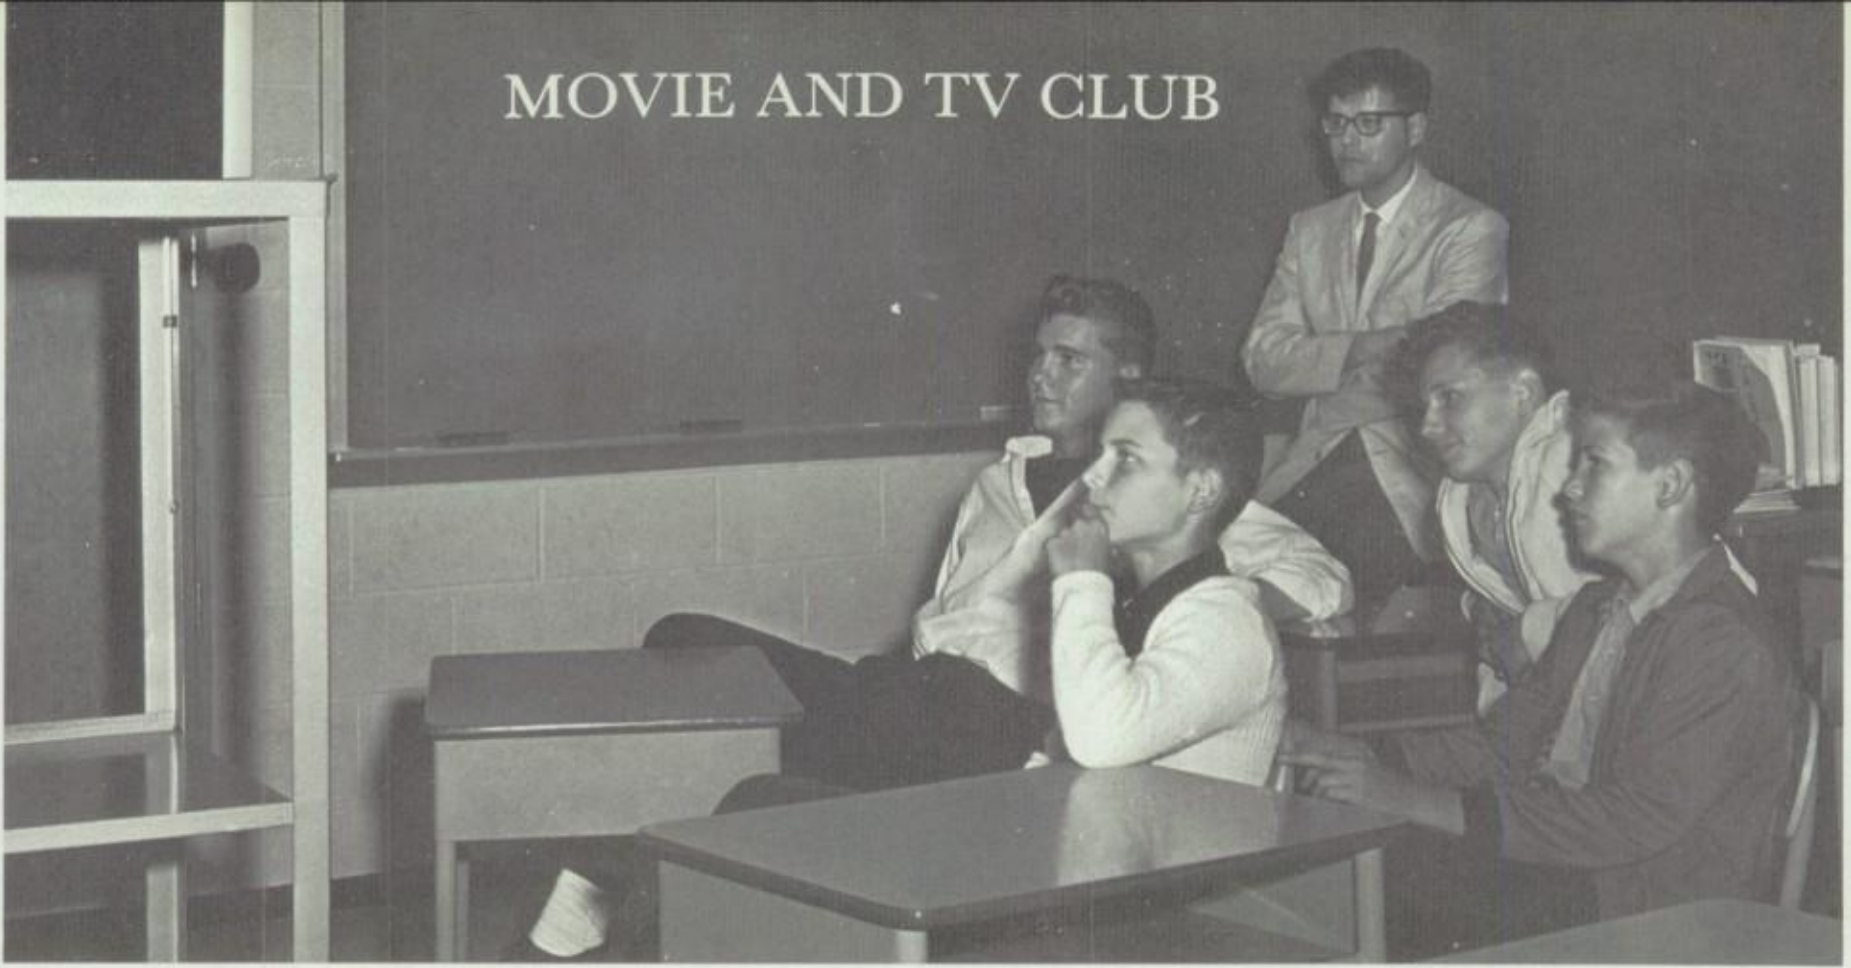

Not only interested in their own appetites, members, as a service project, made and sent candy to a home for the aged.

Officers: president, Larry Hansley; vice-president, Carole Myers; secretary, Pat Pipkin; treasurer, Phyllis Cowgill.

7th Grade Editors: James O'Day, Gary Spang. 8th Grade Editors: Cynthia Truhan, Anthony Biscuso, Suzanne Fisher. 9th Grade Editors: Linda Patton, Joe DeWeese, Lynn Hemmerly, Vicki Fisher.

MOVIE AND TV CLUB

MAC'S MESSENGER

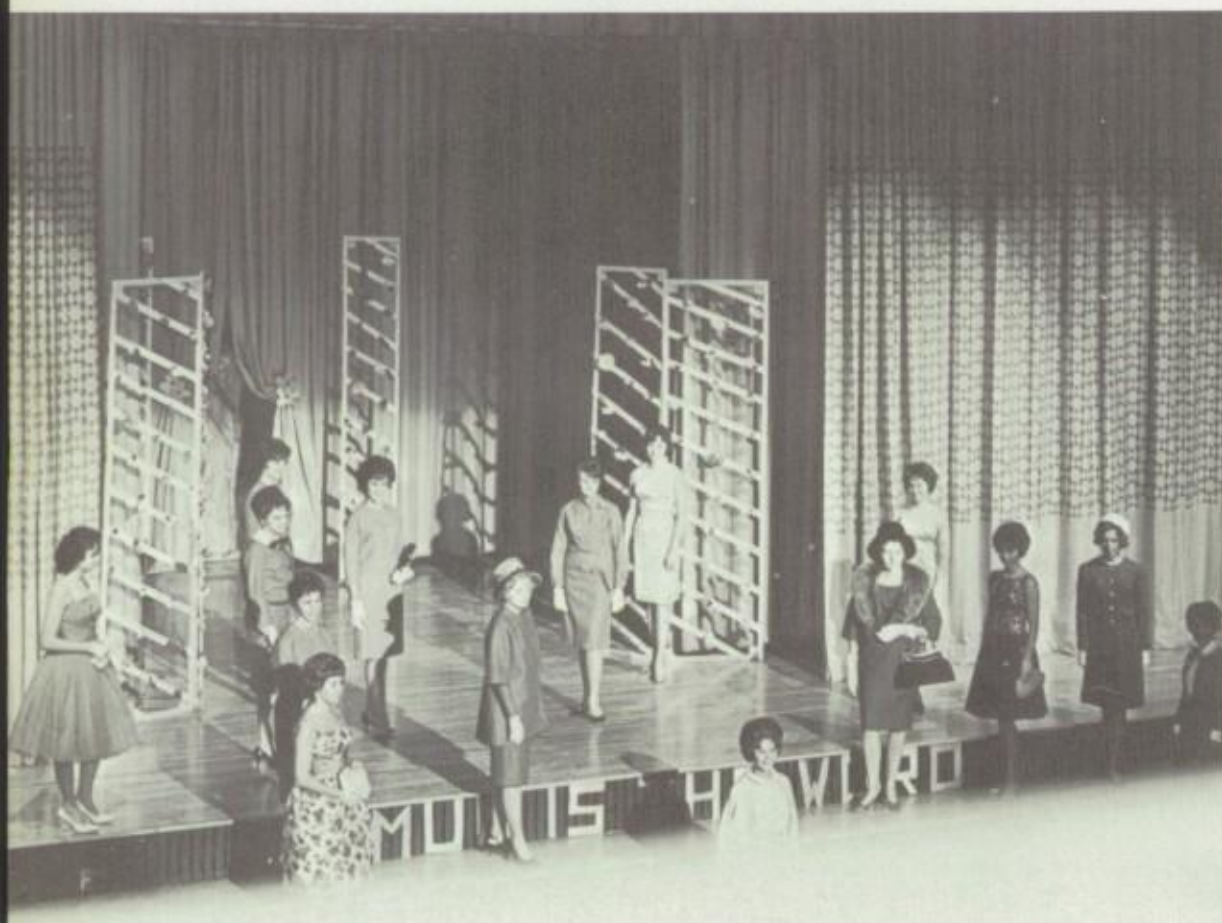

Truhan, Anthony Biscuso, Hemmerly, Vicki Fisher.

Four issues and a flurry of mimeo stencils later, "MAC'S MESSENGER'S" staff and advisors breathed a sigh of relief, but felt, too, a sense of pride in having produced the first paper at Walnut Ridge devoted entirely to articles of interest to junior high students. Minus a newsroom, but plus a great deal of enthusiasm, "Mac's" reporters and editors served their first apprenticeship in covering news of junior high events, student accomplishments, homeroom news, sports, editorials, and features.

Mum was the word when fashion-minded Y-Teens presented a fall preview of styles from Waltz's. Mrs. Abraham, advisor, was among the most popular models.

Exchange students Anette Plahte of Sweden and Susan Freedman of South Africa, visit journalism class with Barbara Share, Beverly Conner, and Linda Dickerson.

Senior Y-Teens Shift From High Fashion To Calico

Decisions, decisions. Y-Teen officers and cabinet plot decorating strategy for the country-style square dance, "Kilts Go Calico."

One, two, three---kick! But instead of the Highland Lassies' high-step, this time Y-Teen Bev Conner is concentrating on the pigskin variety. As a community project, Y-Teens visited the Hannah Neil Mission and spent the morning entertaining the children.

Y-Teens Develop Poise, Social Confidence

Programs designed to help each girl evaluate herself as a total person: her personality, social poise, grooming habits, and spiritual values--were goals of the 8th-9th grade Y-Teens this year. The club's officers were: Kathy May, president; Ann Cahill, vice-president; Beverly Meeks, secretary; Debbie Critchfield, treasurer.

8-9 Y-TEENS

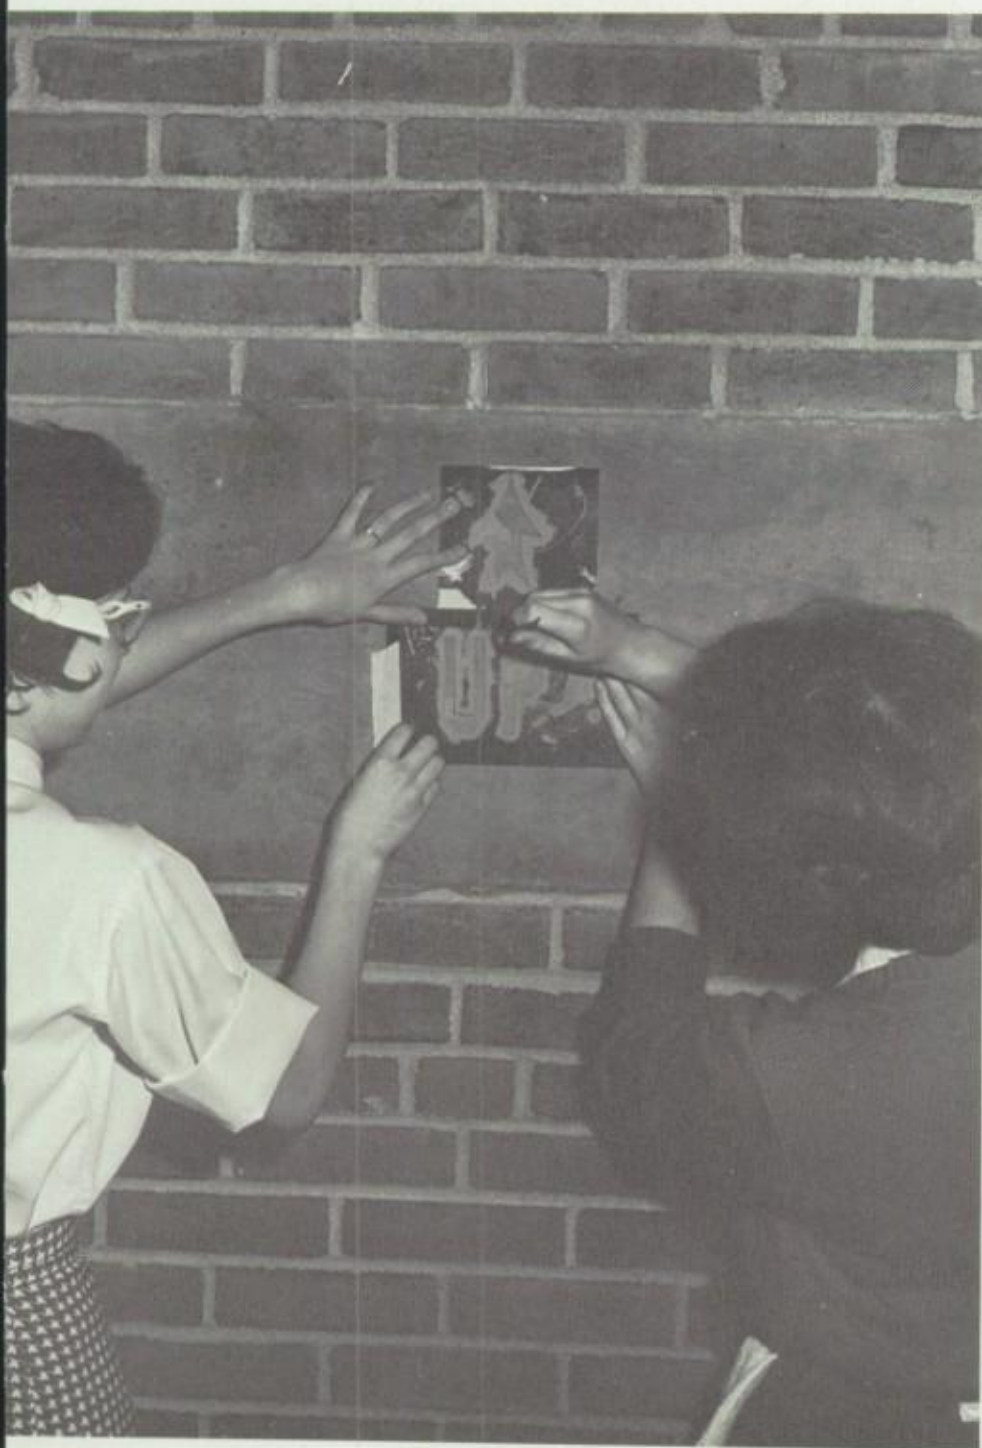

7 Y-TEENS

Safety Scrapbook

Records Projects

Once congested stairways flowed in smooth, one-way traffic patterns. Lockers gave up heaps of useless articles to a winter cleaning campaign. Students developed a conscience concerning cleanliness and clutter. Why? The Safety Corps had come to Walnut Ridge.

SPANISH CLUB

"Spanish word games, twenty questions, and anagrams become particularly challenging in a foreign language," Anita Zeno, president, remarked about the activities of the Spanish Club this year. A highlight of the year was the presentation of a Christmas play, "Pasada," which depicts the travels of Joseph and Mary in Bethlehem. Other officers are: Jack Coate, vice-president; and Donna Garrelts, secretary-treasurer.

As Jeff Jay conducts classmates on a bus ride, his passengers must watch their French grammar as he watches traffic.

FRENCH CLUB

Pancakes...bingo...songs...skits...conversation? Nothing too difficult, unless, of course, one gives each a Parisian flavor. Try making the pancakes into crêpe suzettes ...or playing bingo and singing and acting and talking...all in French. Such was the goal of French Club where English became a forbidden tongue and an appreciation of the French culture and language was encouraged.

GERMAN CLUB

German Club members D. Murray, B. Meeks, J. Bratka, R. Fish, J. Fleming, and L. Call, enjoyed a vicarious trip through Germany via a travelogue movie which was shown at one meeting. A Christmas party with the French Club was another highlight of the year.

LATIN CLUB

In full Roman regalia, and with Mike Newell wielding the scepter of Caesar, members of the Junior Classical League convened with Columbus clubs at an annual spring city-wide Latin banquet. Among those taking part in a skit presented by Walnut Ridge were Bill Aston, Mike Newell, and Bill Bales. Officers: Mike Newell, president; Jim Wallar, vice-president; Joyce Bailey, secretary; Jane Lavender, treasurer.

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Trampoline enthusiast, Jackie Blizzard, demonstrates how "up in the air" a girl can get over her chosen sport.

Any girl with an inclination toward athletics can find an outlet for her energies in G.A.A. Surveying the possibilities for the 1962-63 program are officers (left to right): Barbara Tracy, secretary; Patricia McQuaid, president; Deborah Simonds, vice-president; Becky Smith, treasurer.

Instead of a fifty-mile hike, G.A.A. tracksters Jackie Blizzard, Karen Pinkston, and Andy Voyna keep fit with a five-minute sprint.

The gals with their eyes on the basket, the net, the bat, or the bowling pins are trained to believe in physical fitness and in the good sportsmanship of athletic competition. G.A.A. members racked up individual points in four major sports working toward a long-range goal of G.A.A. awards as seniors. Teams vied for championship positions at each grade level keeping the spark of enthusiasm in girl's athletics alive all year. The annual G.A.A. project was participation in the March of Dimes campaign.

Sharon Johnson goes in for two during a G.A.A. basketball game.

Cheryl Pedersen, Pam Gunnell, and Joyce Bailey gloat over their "take" of fresh oranges for Franklin Village. Sr. Red Cross sponsored several service projects this year, along with providing the girls with a chance to work as Candy Stripers in local hospitals.

"Pass the scissors...and the glue...then I'll need some more paper..." Striving for their goal of community service Junior Red Cross members spent meeting time making nut cups and place mats for nearby hospitals.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

HOBBY CLUB

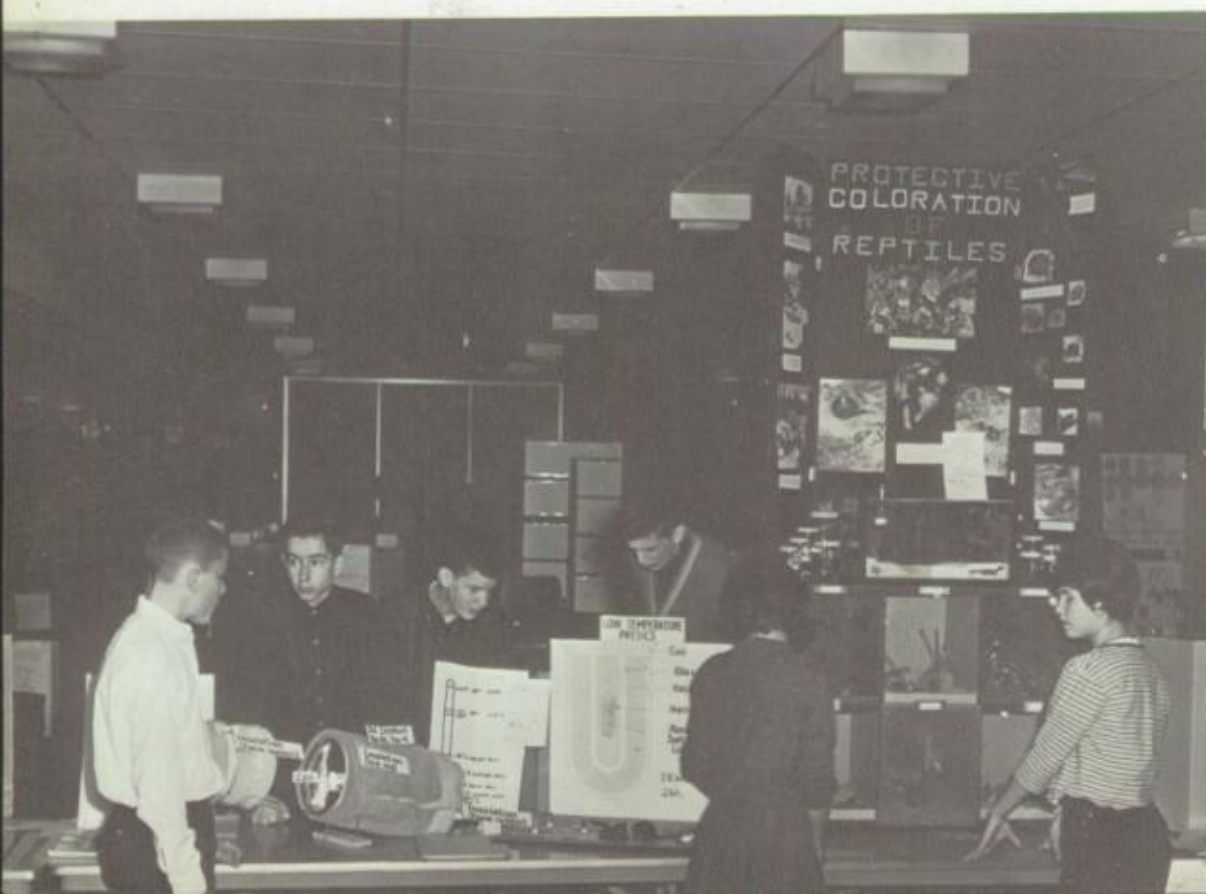

Pride in creation!! Toni Albanese admires the ceramics she designed in connection with the Hobby Club's program to promote active interest in varied hobbies.

JUNIOR SOCIAL DANCING

Arthur and Katherine had better look to their competition, for here comes Stevenson with cha cha, bossanova, and fox trot records in tow and a determined look in his eye. The Junior Social Dancing Club might well be termed "Wall Flowers and Staglines Anonymous," for here seventh-graders learned not only basic dance steps but dance etiquette. These enthusiastic rug-cutters, junior grade, planned and promoted the "Shamrock Hop."

Phil Sachs served as president and Mat Ungar as secretary-treasurer. Trudy Green was Mr. Stevenson's assistant instructress.

JUNIOR SCIENCE CLUB

Flying saucers, rocketry, chemistry, and the theory of relativity---the Junior Science Club tackled them all in their ambitious program this year. Under the leadership of Mr. Thompson, the group presented projects to the Ohio State Science Fair. Scientific discussions and debates made members constantly on the lookout for new scientific information which could be presented to the group. Officers: Pam Reid, president; Andy Mick, vice-president; Jack Winkelman, secretary-treasurer.

DRAMATICS CLUB

The guys and gals behind the footlights at Highlander Minstrels were transformed into performers by make-up stylists recruited by the Dramatics Club, which acted as make-up committee for the show. Other activities of the club included short skits during activity period, plays in lieu of the noon movie, and a year-end picnic. Officers: Lynne Haley, president; Bev Conner, vice-president; Marilou Reid, secretary; Sharon Carter, treasurer.

FUTURE ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS AND TECHNICIANS

It's Wednesday! That means Electronics Club to 25 earnest young Einsteins at Walnut Ridge. Bruce Mason is experimenting with some important-looking knobs, while other club members are working on their own projects or learning information necessary for passing their radio-license tests.

CHESS CLUB

Two's a chess game—but

Ridge and suddenly you've got eleven. The nine kib-itzers are all members of the chess club. The group sponsored their own tournament this year, keeping a record of all the games played. Ken Mick and Herschel Spears were the year's champs.

Officers: Tom Brown, president; Paul Karpik, secretary;
Dana Rutledge, treasurer.

PROJECTION CLUB

It's all part of a familiar ritual...the lights dim...Tex Rife gives the projector one final check...the noon movie begins...

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Yearbook photographer, Bill Tucker, (second from left) explains the intricacies of the school camera to Len Rosen, Tim Call, and Larry Hinton. Advisor to the club is Mr. Cermelj.

"You're on the air!" Dave Rader gives the signal and, right on cue, Nancy Hollingsworth and Suzy Miller begin a short announcement. As part of the club's program this year, members learned to use Walnut Ridge's radio broadcasting equipment.

RADIO-BROADCASTING CLUB

"Which ones are we going to use--they're all good!! And where are we going to put them all?" Senior Art club members were confronted with a multitude of perplexing decisions as they prepared exhibits of student talent around the school.

JUNIOR ART

SENIOR F.T.A.

Teacher Appreciation was the theme of Sr. -F. T. A. 's 1963 program. In April they held a bake sale to raise money for a teacher's tea.

Throughout the year the future teacher's helped Walnut Ridge's own overworked profs with grading papers and recording long lists of hard-earned marks. Sharon Johnson is puzzled but determined.

JUNIOR F.T.A.

Reading is special. Library work is fun. Beginning with these premises, library assistants devote several periods a week to keeping the library functioning smoothly. With members of the Library Club, the assistants share an appreciation for books and an interest in developing good library citizenship. Good library citizens themselves, these students attempted to stimulate a school-wide interest in reading through posters, literary displays and P.A. announcements.

Ah tedium! Twenty-three books lost today. Mr. Kraner confers with bookroom helper Jeff Jay about the myriad details of the daily dispensing of the accoutrements of knowledge: books, pencils, paper. If assistants Katy Hilton, Mr. Kraner, Marcia Rountree, Connie Eckelberry, Kris Morrison, Bill Tucker, Bob Fitzpatrick, and Jeff Jay were to keep a ledger on every "long lost" book tale they've heard in 1963, another bookroom would be needed to house the volumes.

BOOKROOM HELPERS

MOMENTS OF SHOWMANSHIP . . . memories of blaring white lights . . . and upside down feelings in the stomach . . . and hundreds of strange and hostile eyes waiting and watching for a mistake. And then you knew the endless hours of practice had paid off in that unforgettable instant when you heard the applause ringing in your ears . . . and realized that they were clapping for you.

WALNUT RIDGE HIGHLANDER MARCHING BAND

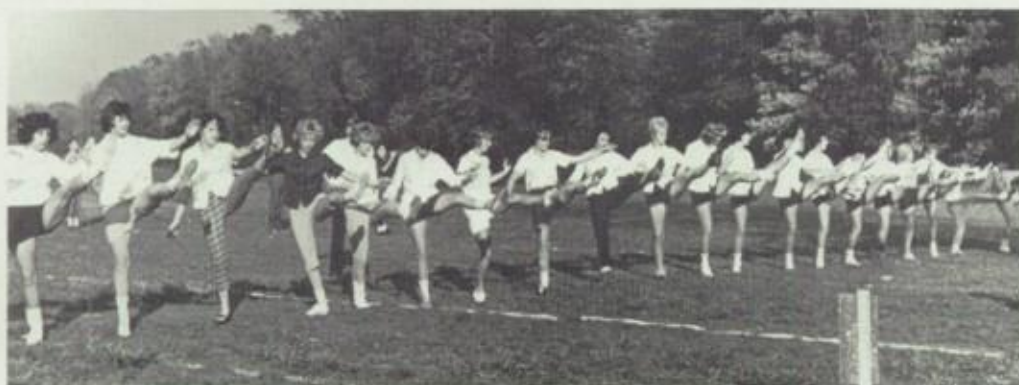

BAND! A--TTEN-TION!!
3-0!

This marching cry of band director Allen Berry unleashed an unchained melody which began in September and never ceased as the Walnut Ridge Highlander Marching Band paced off its first marching season, providing colorful formations and music for football half-time shows.

Minus full-dress uniforms, but compensating with spirit and originality, the Highland Band displayed versatility in concert appearances, and provided the musical backdrop for Highlander Minstrels.

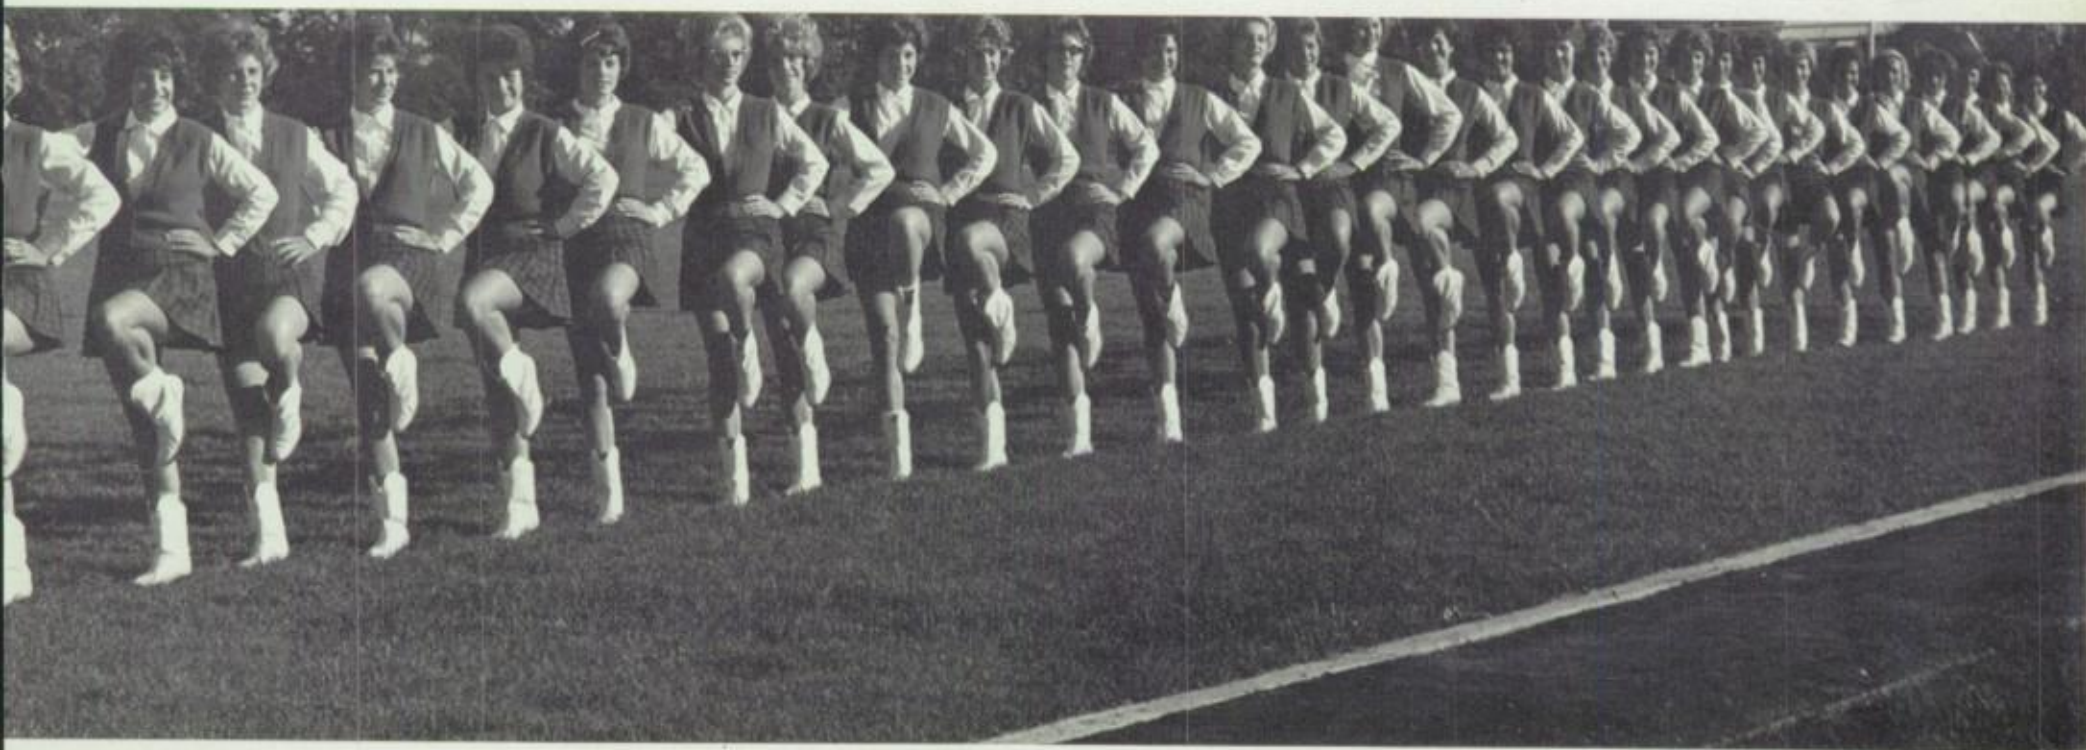

The Concert Band, composed essentially of the same students, presented a Winter Concert, played at Dedication, and P.T.A. meetings. Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story" was featured at their Spring Concert.

What the band lacked in numbers, the Highland Lassies made up for in pulchritude and precision dance routines. Long hours of practice and the tireless tempo of Miss Habenicht payed off in the applause of audiences who witnessed the Lassies' performances at football and basketball games, in the Tartan assembly and Variety Show. Dressed in Highland plaid or sporting the flashing red satin of the Variety Show number, these high-stepping misses pointed their dancing toes toward another Walnut Ridge tradition.

HIGHLAND LASSIES

MR. MAXWELL, ADVISOR

Walnut Ridge musical groups, under the direction of Mr. Jerry Maxwell, this year continued to merit school appreciation and state honors.

Senior High Girls' and Boys' Ensembles received top honors in the local Ohio Music Association's Vocal Music Contest. In state competition, the gals again received a "I" (Superior) rating, while the gentlemen merited an excellent recognition.

Meanwhile, back at Walnut Ridge, vocal groups performed for Dedication, P.T.A., the Spring Concert, and various commencement activities.

During October, members of the Junior and Senior glee clubs and choirs joined with the instrumental department in selling Christmas cards. The salesmen aimed for a goal of $5,000 to purchase band uniforms and choral robes.

It's All
In The Game . . .

Hours after school...hours and hours. Practice...exhaustion...sweat. Hit 'em again...you can do it. Run it through just one more time. And then the locker room...just before gametime. It's quiet...so very quiet. You pray...you hope...you wait. And then you're out under the lights...all those people yelling, But you can't worry now. Up to the line...dig in...plow into that guy...shove. How about a little blood...sweat...you've got to get by on guts. It's just as bad on the bench...wondering. What's he gonna' do? What would I do? Come on guys! Cut to the right...faster...you've got some blockers now...you're gonna' make it! He's over! Now let's do it again.

Queen Pat receives two kisses and a crown from senior representatives Don Pinkston and Jack Fillingier as she presides over "Autumn Splendor" following the game.

The flashing smile and laughing hazel eyes... charming trademarks of a lovely queen.

An anxious moment... as four hopeful candidates circle the field prior to kick-off.

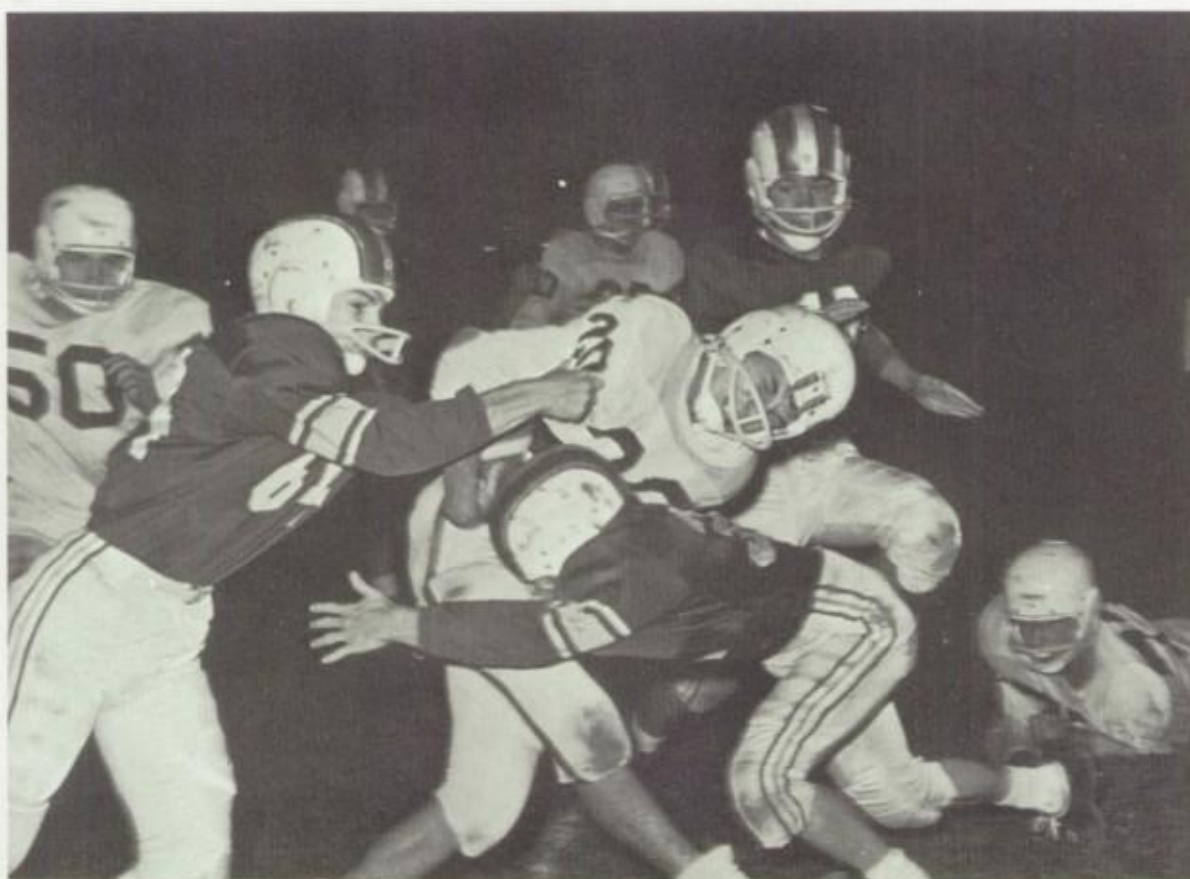

Pat Pipkin Reigns As First Football Queen

The march of triumph. A radiant queen hears the loud-speaker boom her name, and flanked by drum major, Mike Newell, and her escort, takes a majestic walk across the field where her subjects await crowning ceremonies.

A moment for the camera to capture. The traditional congratulatory kiss from team captain, Don Pinkston.

Following the coronation, Queen Pat, her court, and their escorts pause for a royal pose.

Football is pushing and shoving and slamming that guy with the ball into the ground. Grimacing as he strains for yardage, an Eastmoor Warrior meets with an iron wall of stubborn Scot defense.

It's rough on the bench--you feel every tackle and you strain to get your hands on every slippery pass. A tense moment on the field is reflected in the faces of those on the sidelines.

Jump ball? Scot John Roop appears to have his seasons confused as he reaches to snare a pass intended for Eastmoor's Schleppi.

Scots Strain For Success

It's too late now. You can't repeat again those tips you've mentioned a dozen times at practice. Coaches Moore and Webster can only stand...and watch...and hope.

Football Team Gains Year Of Experience

When a school enters the City League after one year of previous football experience, no miracles are expected by anyone. Posting a 1-8 record in league competition the Scots' only win came over Marion-Franklin, by a score of 28-14. Nevertheless, the team received enthusiastic support at home, playing for a standing-room crowd at almost every game in the new stadium.

Since there will be only two vacancies in the starting line-up, many coaches have expressed the opinion that Walnut Ridge should not be discounted in the City race next year.

This year, John Roop, Dennis Day, Jim Pyles, and Tom Coneybeer received Honorable Mention recognition in the All-City balloting.

Cross Country Places Second In City

Walnut Ridge's first cross country team ran up an impressive 6-0 record in dual-meet competition and a 7-0-3 record for all meets. The top five men for the season were Bob Gammill, Dick Mettle, Ken Schwartz, Larry Swartz, and Butch Walston. Larry Schwartz was elected captain of the team.

Only eight boys went out for the team, making it the smallest team in the league. Mr. McKnight, the coach, and the boys had to lay out their own 2-mile course in back of the school for both practice and meets. Yet the team placed second in the city and four of the five men finished in the first twenty. The team as a whole placed 5th in the District Contest.

There isn't much time to think. Just before the race all you can worry about is the trick to getting your warm-up pants off without falling on your ear. But still there's time to wonder--can we win?

Coach Harry McKnight accepts a trophy for his hard work and devotion from team representative Butch Walston at an Athletics Assembly held in November.

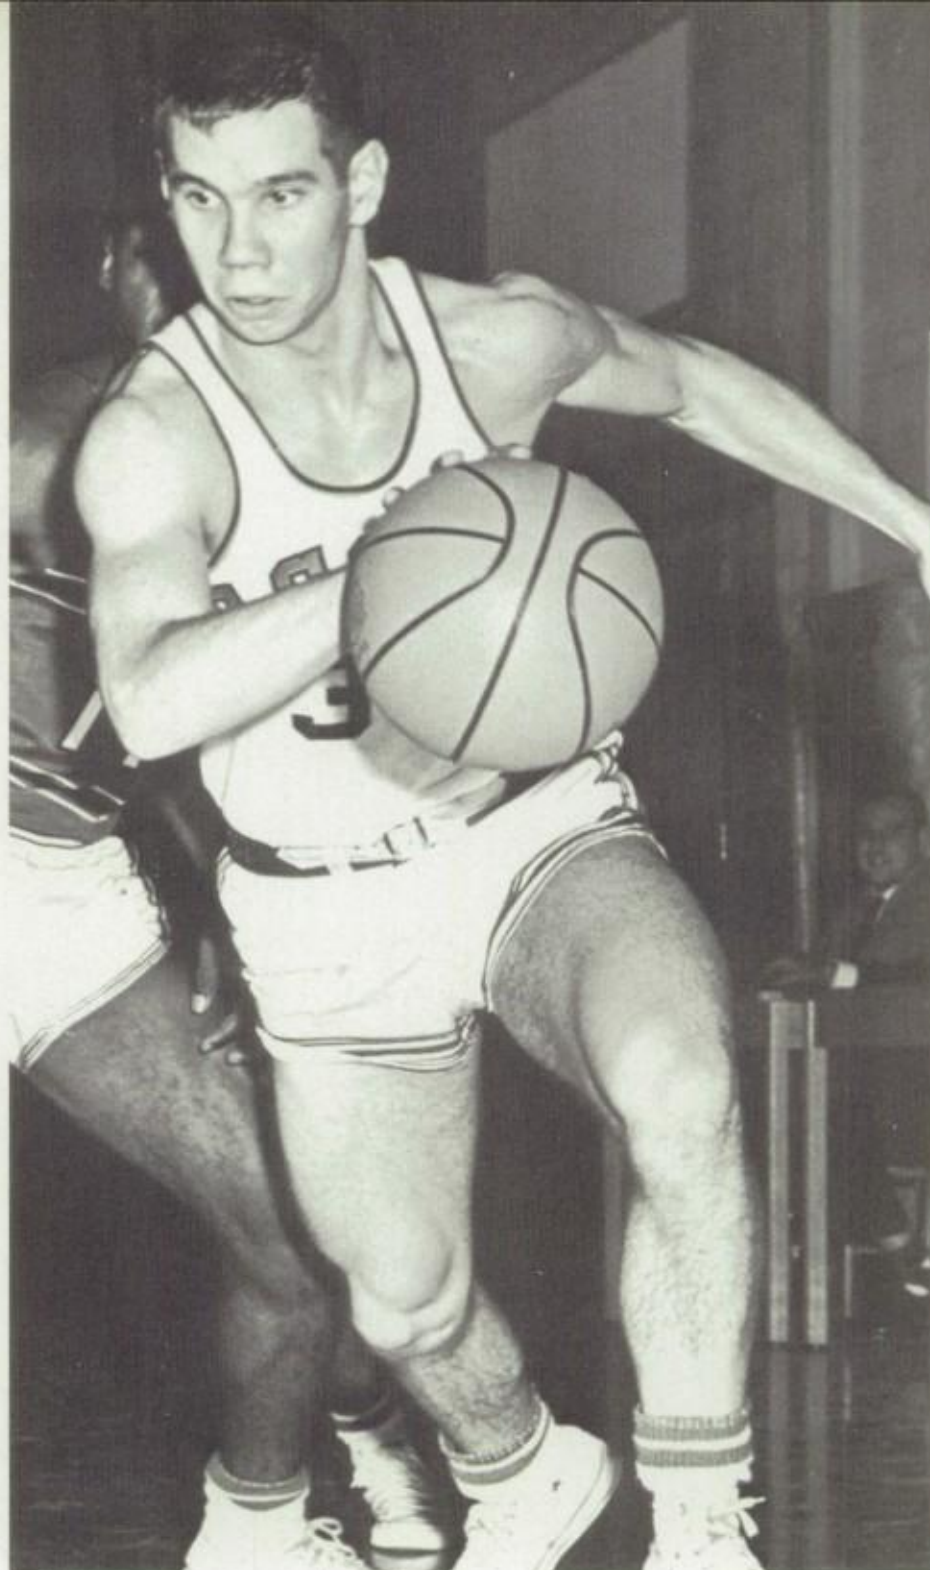

On your mark...get set...in that final moment just before. Tense Scots, muscles taut, line up for a two mile run.

Scot Cagers Face Tough City League

Eight points behind and eight minutes to go. Center Ken Evans takes the high road on the fourth quarter tip of the Sheridan game.

A Highland Fling takes shape as Central works around their pivot man.

An inexperienced, but determined cager squad encountered the tough City League for the first time this year. The team, according to Coach Moore, made a 300% improvement over the '61-'62 pilot run. The Scots played seventeen games, ten in the City League, and came away with an overall record of 2-15. The Scots scored an overtime victory over DeSales, 37-35 and finished the season by edging Reynoldsburg 45-41.

Coach Moore sees a ray of hope in the somewhat disappointing encounter with the City League, "If the boys are willing to work hard during the summer and grow a few inches, a better season is in store for next year."

Dennis Day matches skill with a driving Pirate.

A Sheridan Warrior sneaks a bunny shot under McQuaid, as McKray moves into rebound position.

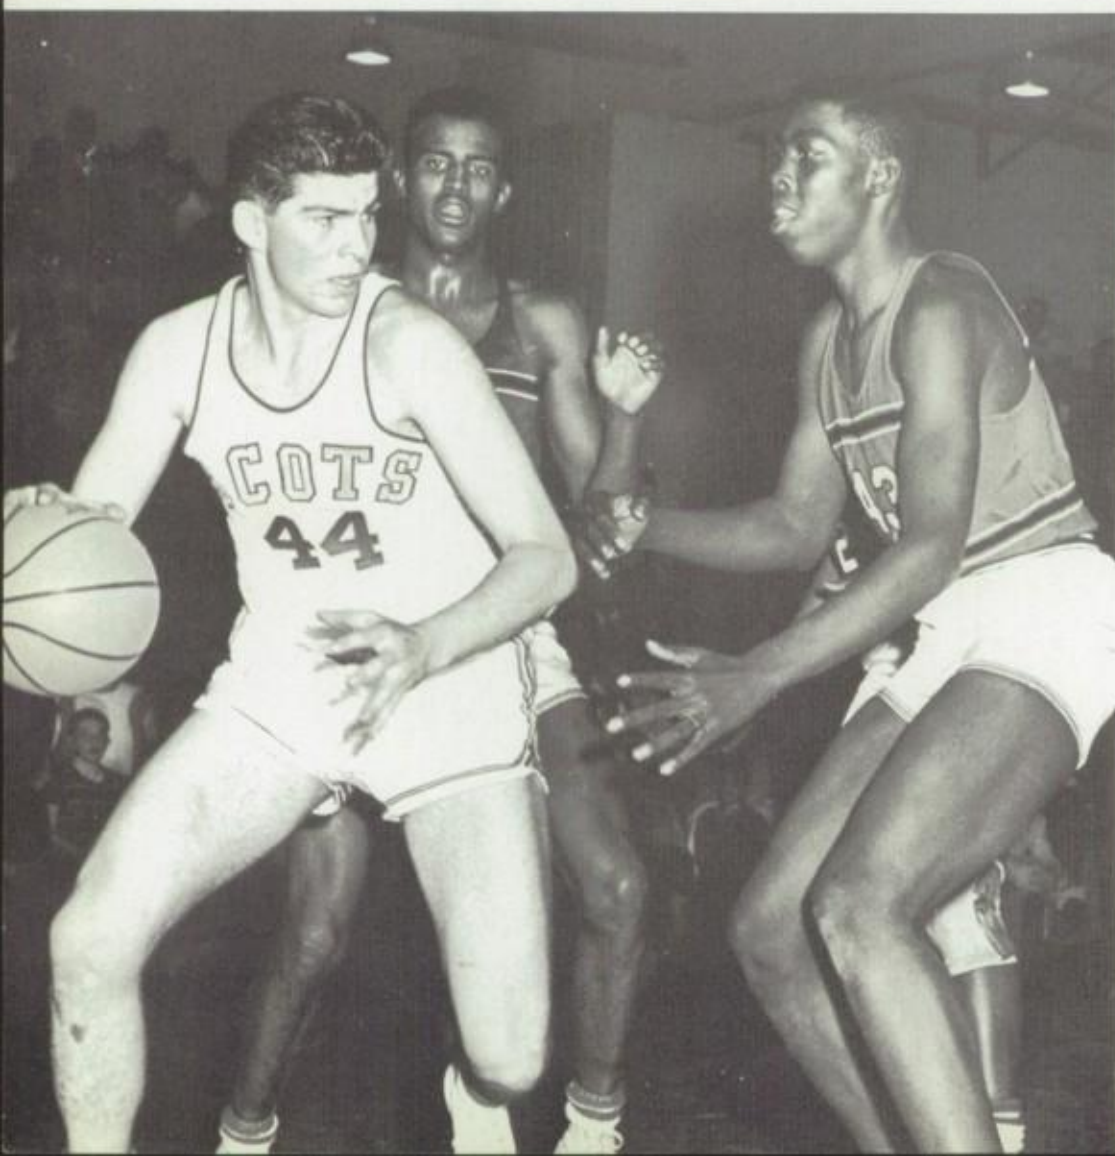

Feyh looks for a fellow Highlander as two Reynoldsburg Raiders close in.

It's How

The Game . . .

Evans goes high on the boards to tip a rebound to McQuaid, helping to boost the Scots to a 45-41 victory over Reynoldsburg.

No driving room. McKray debates options.

First South-Section Sportsmanship Trophy

Walnut Ridge's Junior High cagers finished a disappointing season with a win-loss record of 3-9, but brought to the school the South section's first sportsmanship trophy.

Mr. Cermelj, master of the scrapping Scotties, stated that the entire team did a good job this year, "They did a lot of things well and a lot of things not so well, but they showed improvement, which is important."

The Scotties scored a victory in their second time on the hardwood, against Indianola 27-24. They downed the Blue Devils of Johnson Park 33-31 in overtime, and crushed Barrett 38-27. Mr. Cermelj hopes that these victories foreshadow even more next year, "They'll do a fine job in '64--I hope!"

WR Wrestlers Post Successful Meet Record

Walnut Ridge's Wrestling team participated in twelve meets this year, plus the sectional and the city meets. Their overall record was seven wins and five losses.

Captain Don Pinkston, who wrestled in the 138 pound weight division, had the best individual record for the team. He and Bruce Walston, who wrestled in the 108 pound class, will be the only losses to the team next year.

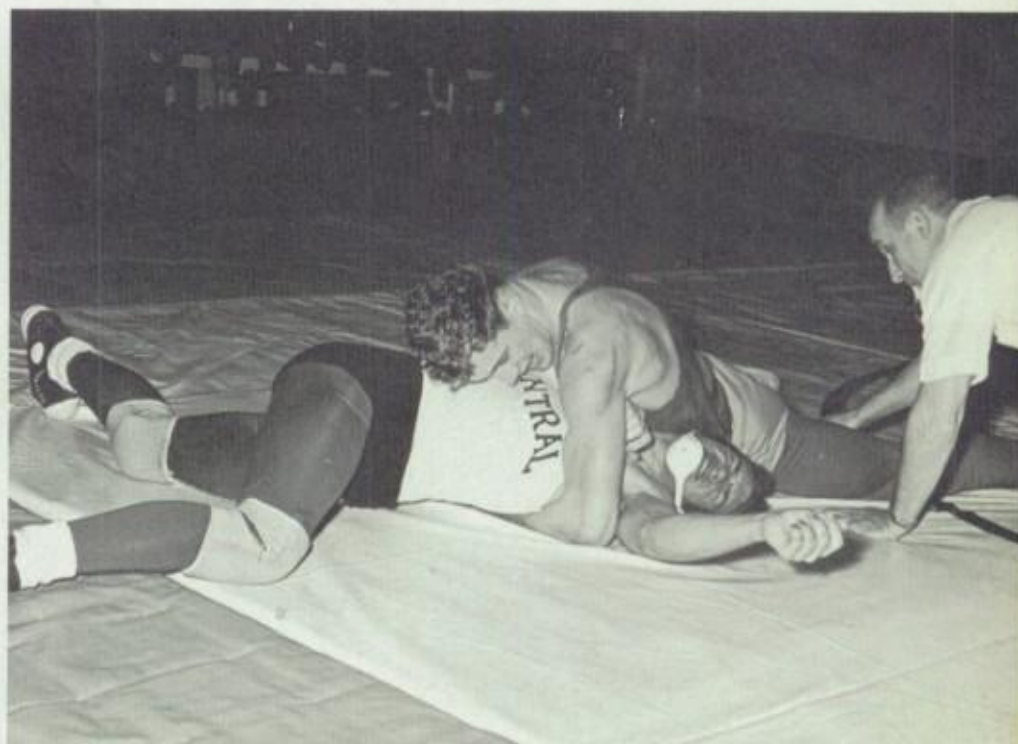

Coach Webster is expecting another impressive season next year, after finishing 2nd in the East High School Invitational Meet and 4th in the City Meet.

Pinkston's foe is helpless as Don jockeys for position.

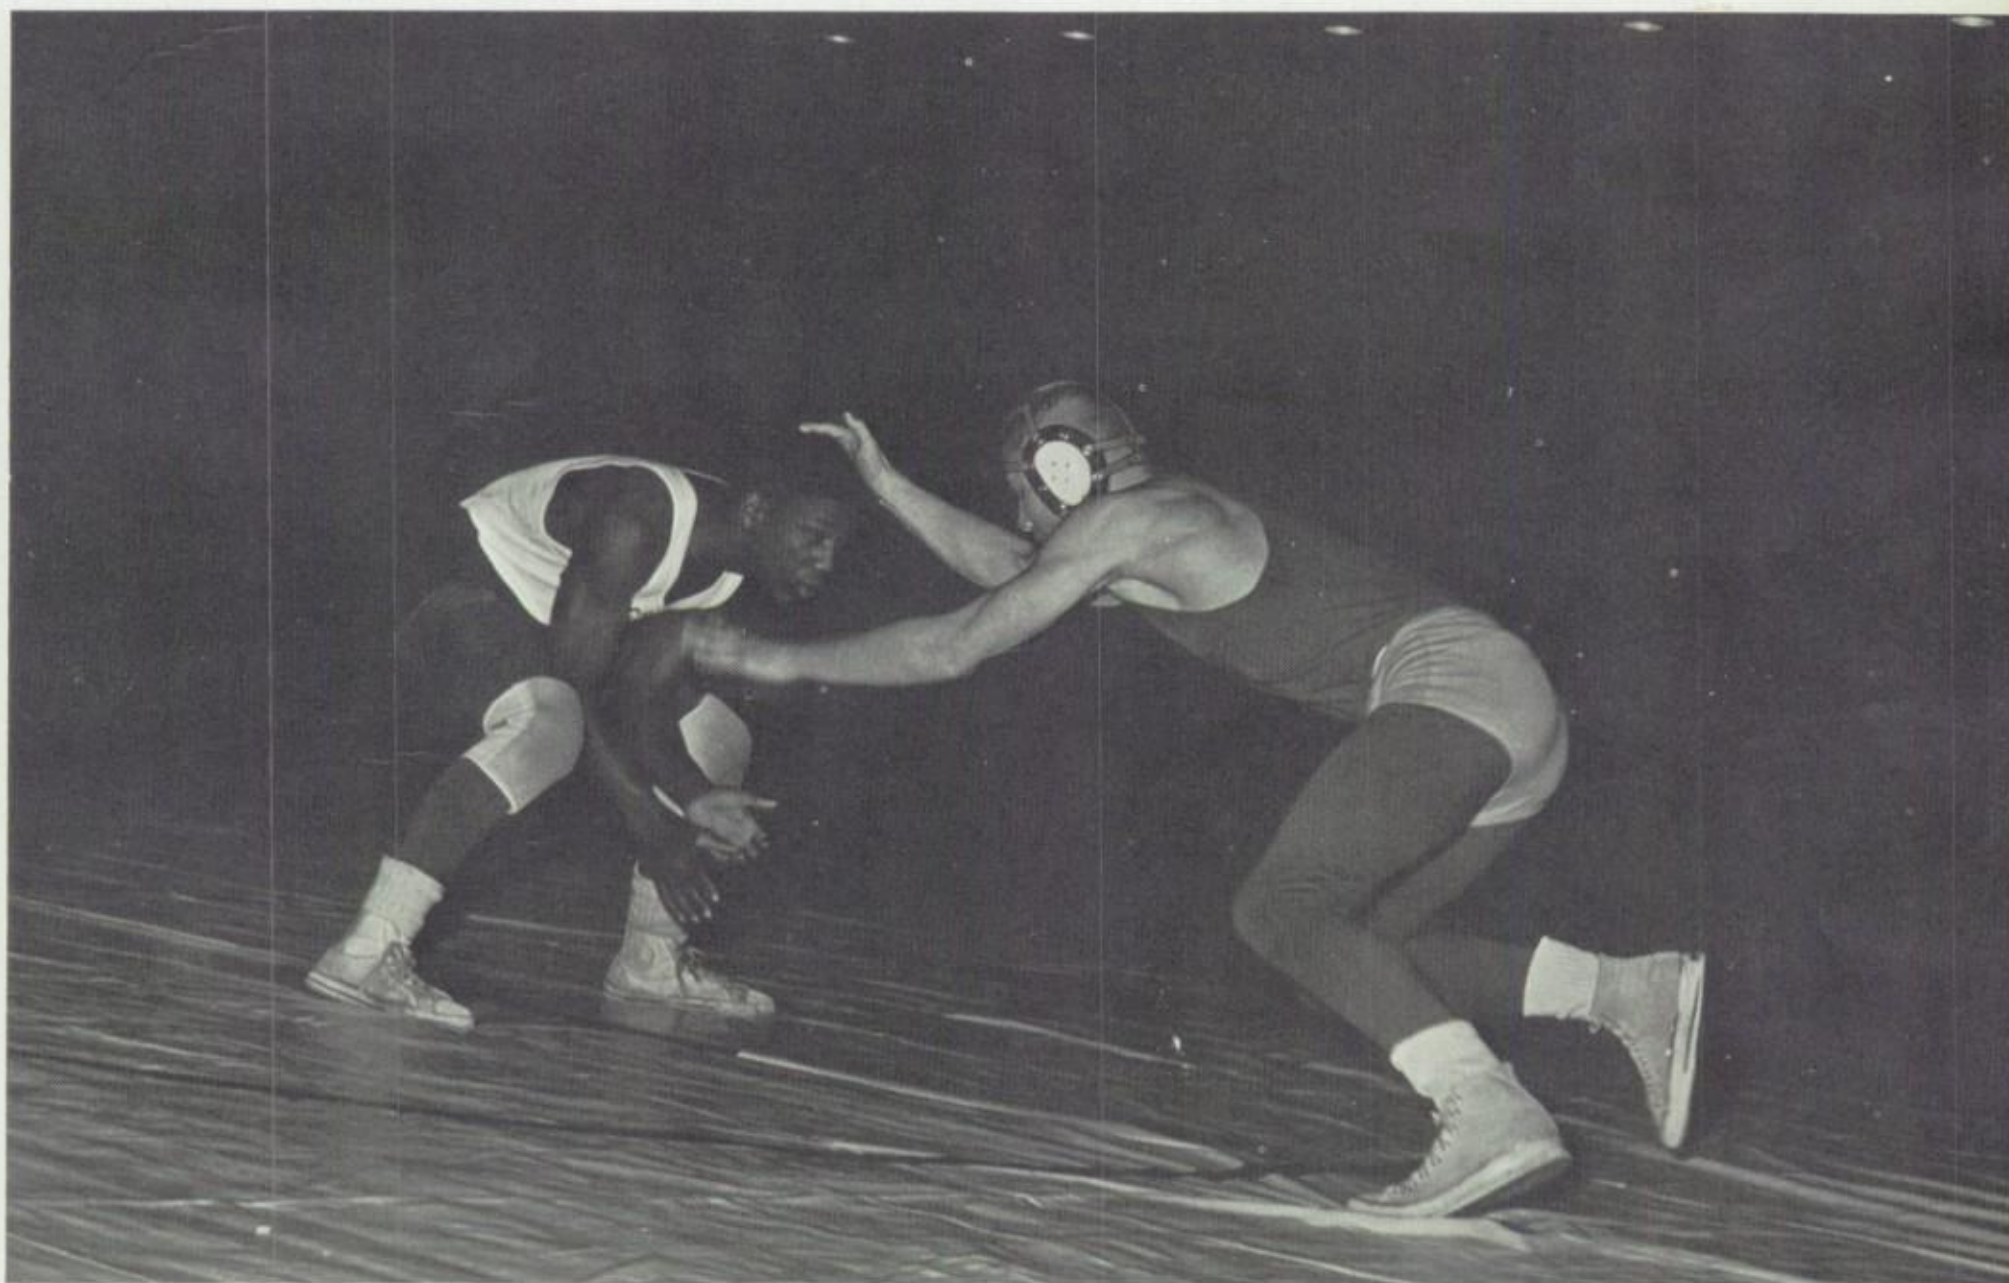

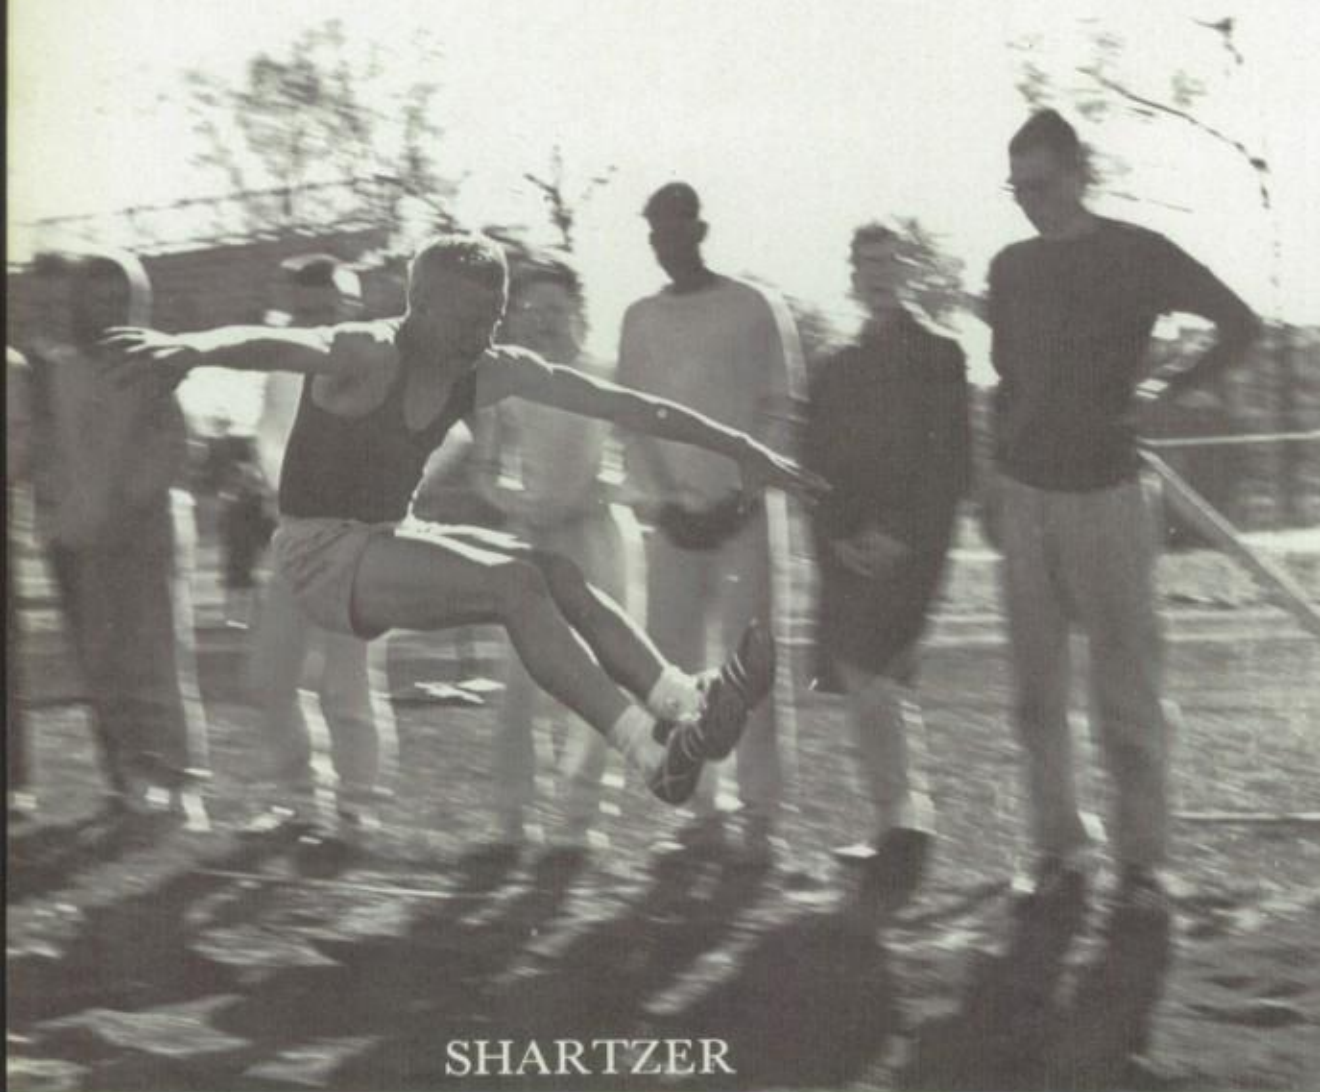

City champ Don Pinkston maneuvers into pinning position on a Linden panther at the city meet.

SENIOR TRACK

Walnut Ridge track teams finished a so-so season, competing on the new all-weather rubberized track.

For the Senior High, highlight of the year was the City League Championship. The Scots collected a total of 29 points, which was good enough for third place honors.

Earlier in the season Walnut Ridge's 2-mile relay team placed second at the Riverside Relays, third at the Whitehall Relays and fourth at the Worthington Relays.

Leading scorers through the season were Ken Schwartz, Rick Mettle, Larry Schwartz, and Deryck Barber.

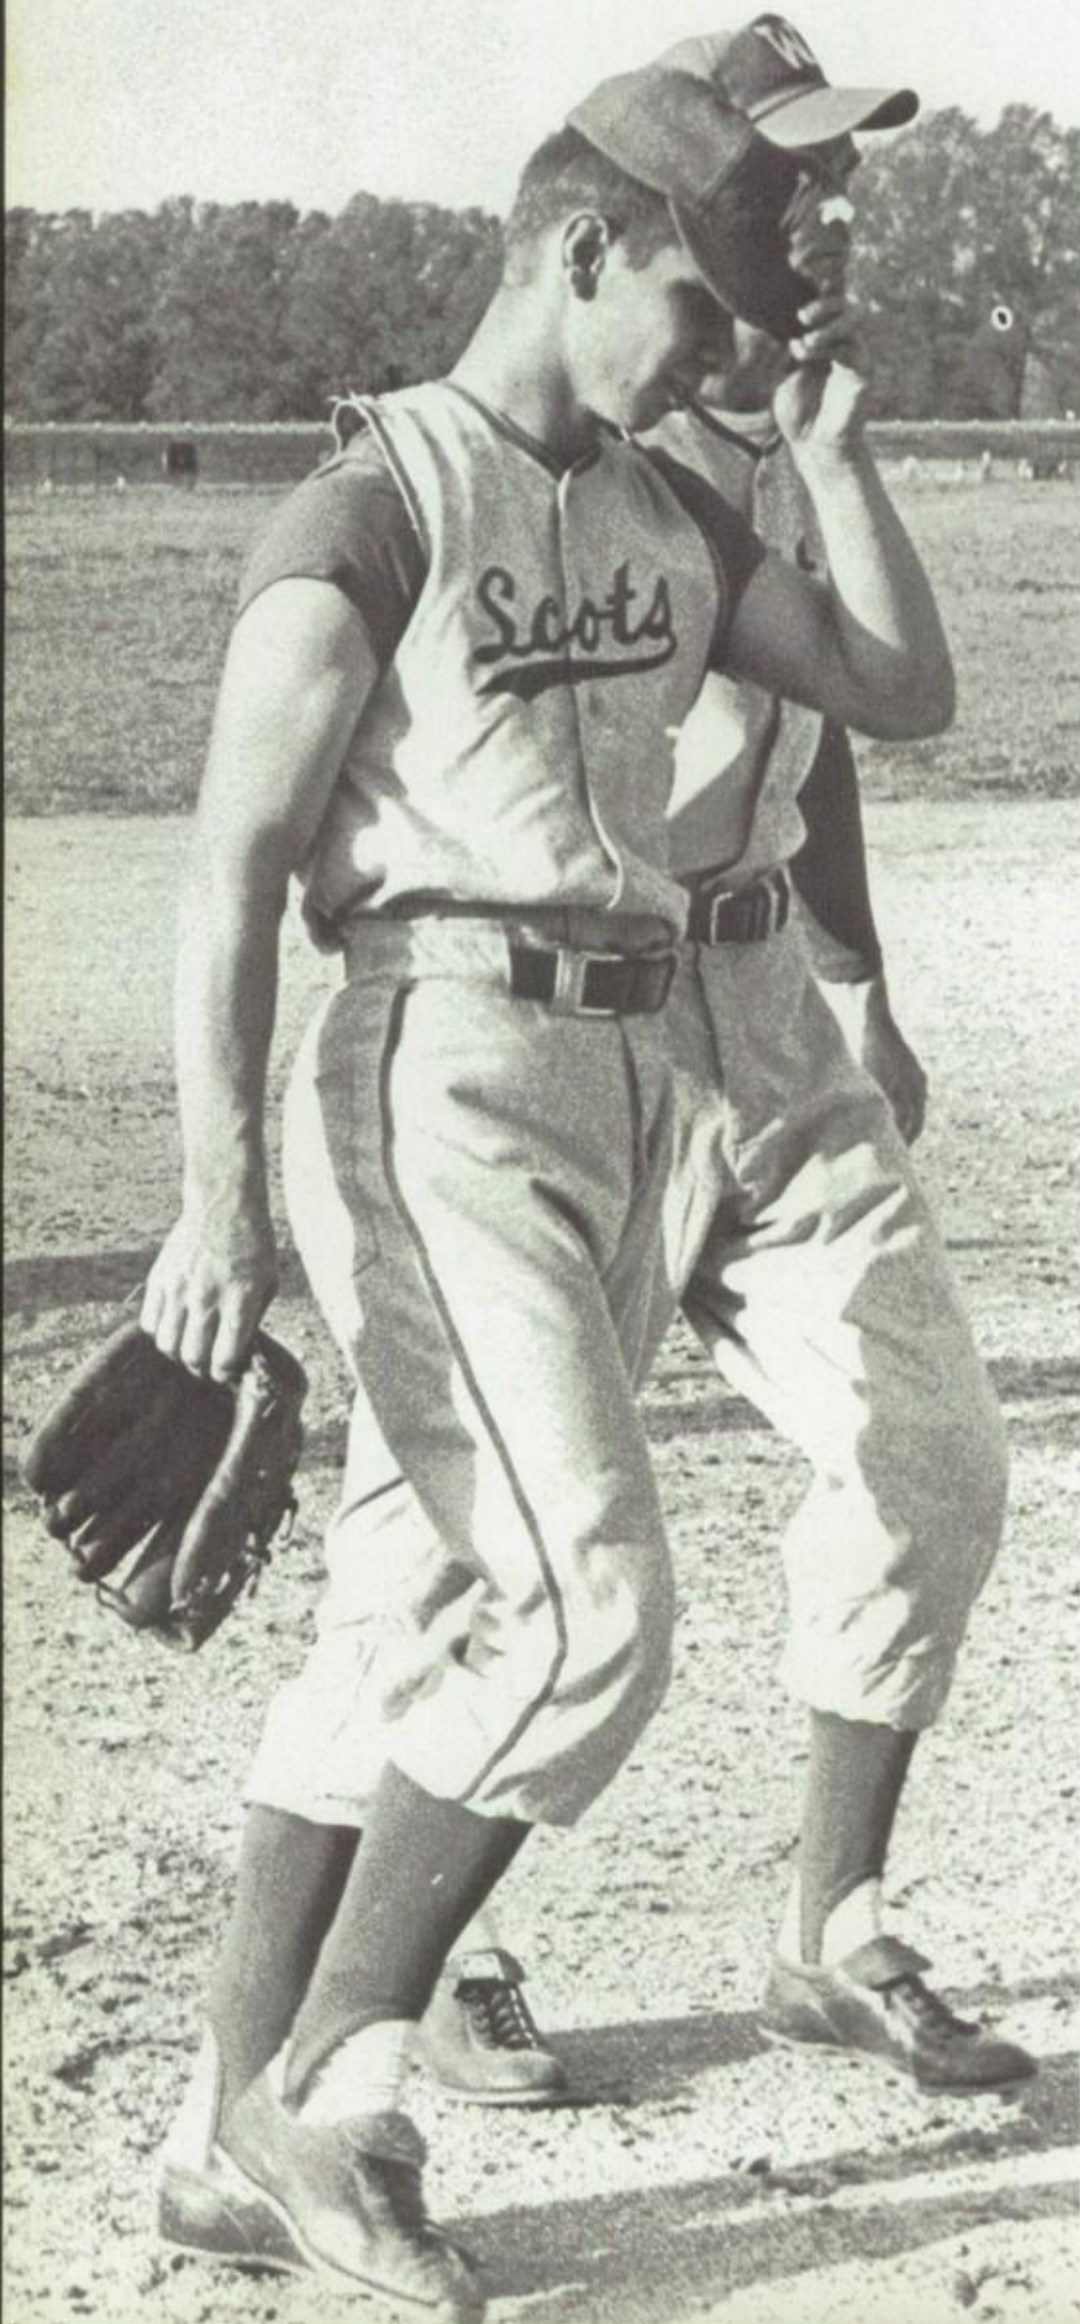

For the Scotties, Roger Shartzter qualified for the City Finals by finishing second in the broad jump, finishing fourth in the actual finals.

Leading scorer this season was Roger Shartzter. Other letter winners included Thompson, Shidone, Feyh, Wallar, Tanner, Napier, Chin, and Manager Figley.

Mr. Wolfe, Larry McIntyre, Bill Gee, Kerney Pinkston, Steve Butterfield. GOLFING TEAM

Scots Post 8-6 Record

Scot Dave Walters keeps an eye on a long-gone pitch.

Chuck Crook, Scottie hurler, came on strong at the end of the season, to join Houchen and Cheatham on the All South-Section team, chosen by city coaches.

The Senior High baseball team, coached by Moe Cordle, finished the season with a respectable 8-6 record overall and a 4-5 record in league play. John McQuaid led the Walnut Ridge pitching staff with four victories, while Dennis Day racked up three, and Jim Pyles one.

High point of the season found the Scots drawing Circleville, defending Class AA District champs, in the first round of tournament play. Walnut Ridge led Circleville through five innings, but was unable to upset the home team. Circleville won, 4-3.

Scotties Earn First Walnut Ridge Championship

CHAMPS: the Junior High Baseball team finished the season by winning the first-ever championship for Walnut Ridge High School. The Scotties fought right down to the wire, defeating Marion-Franklin, 2-1, in extra innings in the last game of the season.

The Highlanders won eight and lost one as they captured the South Section crown. The only league loss came at the hands of Roosevelt, 7-3.

Jack Cheatem led the Walnut Ridge hitters, collecting the high batting average and five home runs. Chuck Crook and Jack Cheatham shared pitching chores. Coaching the team was Don Wynkoop.

MOMENTS OF ENTHUSIASM

The final buzzer sounds. The game is over. Walnut Ridge might have been on the losing end of the score. But the ambassadors of pep, personality, and positive thinking kept smiling and cheered the team off the floor. The three cheerleader squads kept the banners of school spirit flying at games and pep rallies, dedicating every bounce-filled ounce of each performance to the proposition that "nothing worthwhile is achieved without enthusiasm."

It's a toss-up as to whether Jim Wallar is happy about being graduated, about being surrounded by a bevy of his attractive classmates, or about being a member of the Junior High National Honor Society. Fourteen members of the ninth grade graduating class were honored with induction into the Society at a special junior high assembly held in May.

A comic mixup involving carnations, cops, and confused identities, and understandably entitled "Imagine That," kept the ninth grade graduating class guessing at a party held in their honor.

Class speaker, Kris Morrison, receives congratulations and his diploma from Mr. Thatcher at commencement exercises which graduated 188 students on June 5, 1963.

Hunting for...books? Gary Wilking is on a safari also, yet he's searching for a different kind of prey. And the objective has been sighted! But the approach is going to be a definite problem. This will require some research.

Lunch time is a million kids and being by yourself. It's laughing and throwing your spoon into an empty glass because -- well -- you're just plain mad.

Progress seems slow when you know there is still a long, long way to go. Glen Tuckett, faced with a long reading assignment, keeps a running check on the pages he has already conquered.

Moments Of Discovery

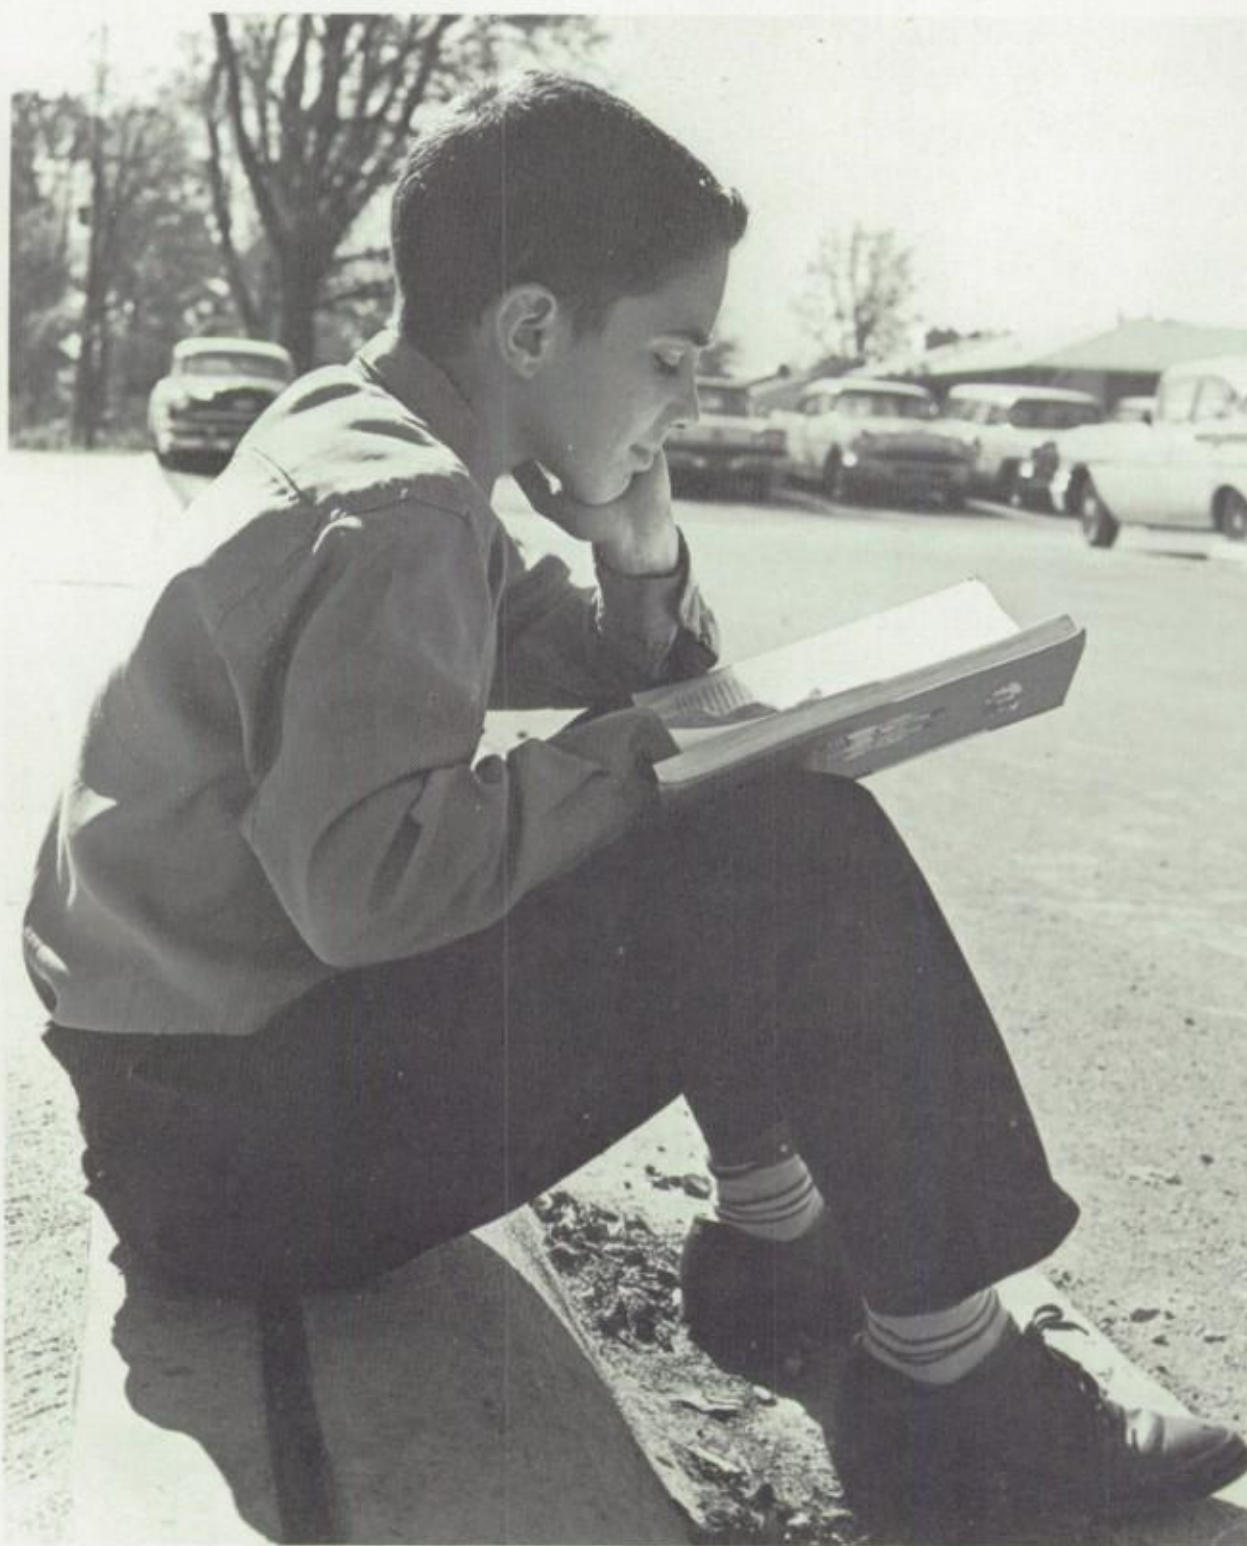

Finding out...life isn't really so rough... school's fun...and so's that teacher who was so frightening last year... Then you realize...friends can make you happy...and sad...and that girl across the row has the prettiest smile in the whole world. That's what it's like when you're in the EIGHTH GRADE.

Rhonda Brown and Linda Brown work deftly to complete their clothing projects.

"HMMMMM!" Karen Pinkston applies the decisive taste test to a pan of cooling fudge.

Waste not! Every moment is precious in a hectic study schedule. Neil Hirsch takes advantage of a solitary moment for a quick re-reading of an English assignment.

With an impish grin, Bill Abbott peeks around a revealing corner as he plays a coy hide-and-seek with the inquiring eye of a persistent camera.

Moments Of Adjustment

Learning how...to study...to do something right the very first time...to make a friend...and to swallow your fears and ask that tall Senior where the elevator is... that's what it's like when you're in the SEVENTH GRADE.

Enjoying a chance to dress up at an evening dance, Sandy George and Dave Hanicq twist their cares away after a tense day at school.

Lunch is the time for laughing and chatting and for good friends. Under the bright noon-day sun, seventh-grade girls prepare themselves for afternoon classes.

Moments Of Inspiration And Desperation

It's not a yearbook, you fools, it's a you book! Ed. Chris Lindenberg was convinced, but staff meetings sometimes lost the "you-book" concept in a mad search for the missing layout, or the senior pictures, or the copy for page 93. The 1963 Tartan staff, to the uninitiated, might look disorganized, and to one on the "inside," it became quite obvious that nothing short of a miracle would get us through the final deadline.

Chaos and confusion, however, sometimes bring forth that illusive ideal--creativity--and that was the idea in the first place. So, if you like the layouts, and the copy, and the pictures, pardon us if we say that they didn't get there by accident.

Don't you think it's about time we got organized? Organization editor Lynne Haley, renowned for her piercing yelp on "picture days" was just the gal to get the job done.

A girl and boy together . . . perhaps for the last time . . . meeting once in a moment of time . . . exchanging greetings before they part.

A school year is not a static, lifeless series of days . . . broken only by an occasional flash of activity . . . but an infinite series of "nows" which can never be recaptured or relived in exactly the same way.

The 1963 Tartan has attempted to follow you through all the moments of which a school year is made. In these pages you have seen them . . . the moments of exuberance . . . of contemplation and hard work . . . the thrill of competition . . . the daydreams of the future. Here are the little moments, the special moments, the panorama of hours and days . . . to be recalled . . . to be remembered . . . now . . . and always.

Chris Lindenberg,
Editor

The Tartan staff gratefully acknowledges the efforts of the following photographic consultants without whom the pictorial coverage in the 1963 Tartan would have been impossible.

MR. IRVING LLOYD

MR. WILLIAM CHEATHEM

MR. WILLIAM TUCKER, student photographer

For creative inspiration, for confidence she has shown in us, and for the long hours she spent in helping us to wade through a mountain of deadlines and dilemmas, we offer a special word of thanks to MRS. BEVERLEE REGULES, advisor.

For understanding, co-operation, and remarkable patience through our desperate hours, we extend "Thank you's" to Principal Don E. Thatcher and company representative Paul Retrum.

Nike
You're a wonderful person
that I greatly admire.
I only 1/2 the love had your qualities. We had a lot of good times. I only hope that we will change and I only friends! Don't ever forget. I only say the person you are in life hard and you'll have only the most wonderful goals and make the most wonderful you do and may your future be a happy one.
Be good. Remember me always.
Love n. luck
Diana

Mike
 One of my greatest friends Remember all the fun
 we have had the past two years at Walnut Ridge. Our Good luck with the girls this year, and study hard.
 Good Luck Always,
 Roy Berman (63)

We
 Mike,
 have a lot of fun with a great
 group of members
 Remember we had in
 all the fun we've had in the room + we're really enjoying it!

To Mike,
 a really tuff
 guy who was my first "love" at Walnut Ridge. You're really a great guy, and I wish you the best of luck in the future.

To Mike
 a real tough guy
 with a fabulous personality.
 I hope your coming years at the Ridge will be your best. Best of luck in everything
 you do.

Mike,
 We ought to have fun in study hall this year if we're lucky. Keep the school spirit always and you will be thought a lot of!

To Mike
 A real great
 guy who is always a lot of fun to be with.
 Good luck in the years ahead. I hope you go out for football in '65.
 "Be a Pro!"

Mike,
 one of my
 real good buddies at Walnut Ridge (formerly of Johnson Park), I hope that this year we will be just as close of friends as we've been in the last few years. Best of luck in future years.
 a real friend forever
 "Charley"
